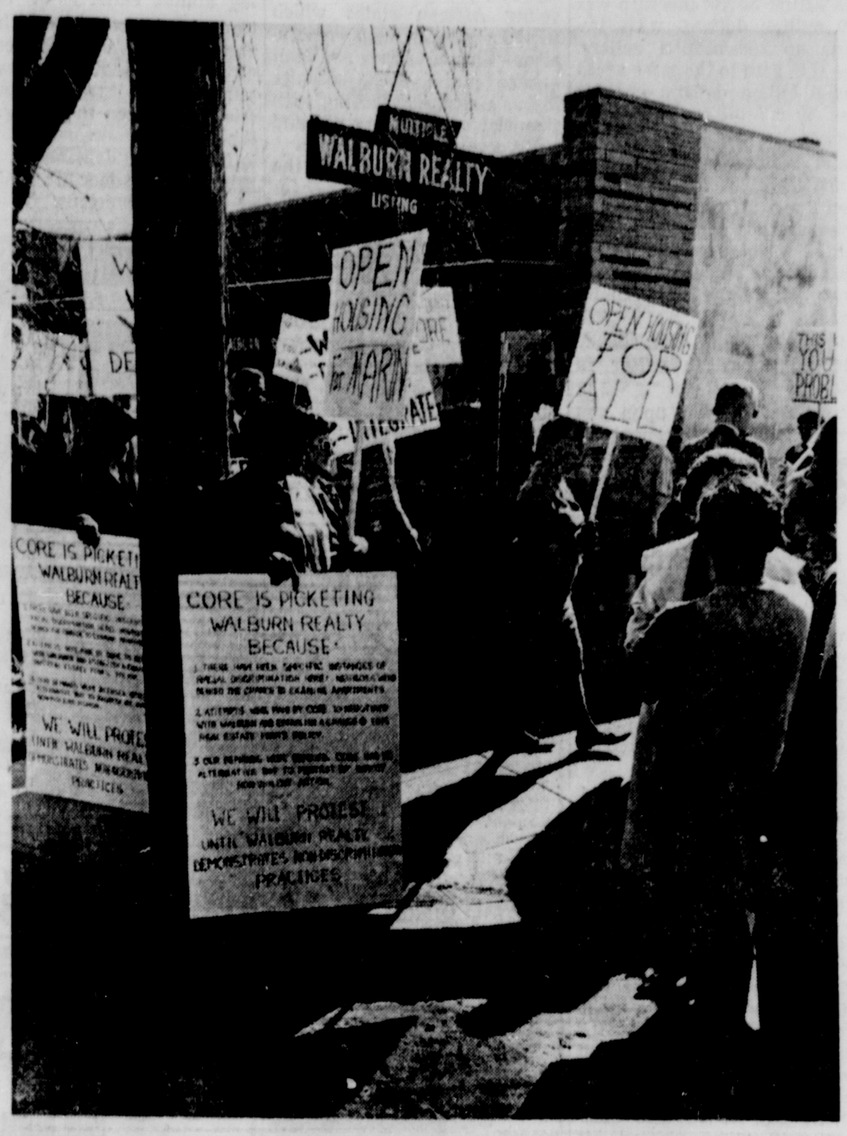
State Says Keaton Cannot Give Case To Own Business



PICKETING FOR 'EQUALITY' — Marin Congress of Racial Equality pickets parade with signs in front of Walburn Realty in Mill Valley, protesting alleged discrimination in apartment rentals. Joining in the picketing, although not present when this picture was taken, was Daniel A. Collins, newly appointed member of the State Board of Education.

Conflict Of Interest, Attorney General Says

County Coroner Frank J. Keaton should stop immediately assigning coroner cases to his own mortuaries, the state attorney general's office held today.

Keaton refused comment for the time being.

The practice violates the state's conflict of interest laws, said Chief Deputy Atty. Gen. Charles A. O'Brien in San Francisco in a formal opinion requested by Marin County.

"The coroner-public administrator is also violating the common law principle that a public officer cannot exploit his office for private gain and should discontinue the above practice immediately," the opinion continued.

Only in small counties, where there is only one mortuary, would it be legal for the undertaker to be the coroner and assign cases to his own business, the opinion holds.

On Feb. 2, 1962, the Board of Supervisors voted, 4-0, to set a specific salary for the post of coroner-public administrator and eliminate the fee system. Keaton at the time said he was dissatisfied with the salary, which will average $9,400 a year over the first four years.

RIDER ATTACHED

In the motion, however, Supervisor Peter Behr attached a rider that "whoever may be elected to this office, he should not handle privately any cases through any mortuary in which he may have either direct or indirect financial interest."

"On the conflict of interest matter, I checked with my attorney who tells me there is no conflict of interest," Keaton replied at the time.

The question still had not been resolved by August, and on Aug. 20, 1962, the board and Keaton agreed to ask the attorney general's opinion.

'LEGALLY SOUND'

"I'm so sure that my position is legally sound that I am willing to be bound by decision of the attorney general," Keaton said at that time.

Today Keaton said he would have no comment until after he sees the actual opinion "to find out on what he bases his opinion."

"But this is only an opinion," he added.

In the question posed by County Counsel E. Warren McGuire, it was noted that the county is divided into areas for assignment of coroner cases. These cases include those where a death has occurred involving violence or accident or where no doctor was in attendance and none had been recently treating the person who died.

The opinion noted that the board resolution had no enforcement teeth in it, but that an injunction could be filed based on Behr's motion if the coroner persists in assigning coroner cases to either of his two mortuaries, in San Rafael and Sausalito.

Not Out To Soak Rich, JFK Says

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—President John F. Kennedy, defending his administration against charges of anti-business bias, said today he is not out to "soak the rich."

The president said his policies are designed to promote "the steady progress of our entire society" and to bring about "prosperity in an age of peace and abundance."

In a major address prepared for the Florida Chamber of Commerce, Kennedy gave the most comprehensive reply yet to those who accuse the administration of being anti-business.

Kennedy flew to Tampa from Palm Beach aboard his jet transport, landing in bright 80-degree weather at nearby Mac-Dill Air Force Base. He was welcomed by Gen. Paul D. Adams, commander of the U.S. Strike Command.

Before returning to Washington late tonight, Kennedy will make five speeches here and at Miami Beach.

The whirlwind schedule marked the beginning of a two-state speaking tour which Kennedy hopes will help him capture the South's most populous states—Florida and Texas—in 1964.

TEAR GAS PUTS DOWN PRISON RIOT

Felons Tear Up Cells Over Fatal Quentin Stabbing

San Quentin Prison guards yesterday used tear gas to quell a riot in the prison's adjustment center where 20 inmates tore apart their cells and banged on doors.

The riot was connected to the fatal stabbing of Antonio Chacon, 22, in the adjustment center Friday, according to Associate Warden Dale Frady.

The rioters, like Chacon, "were mostly from the Latin American group," Frady said.

Inmates in the adjustment center, which is used to house 89 convicts who are special behavior problems, began yelling and banging on their cell doors at 5:30 p.m.

THREW FURNISHINGS

The convicts tore apart light fixtures, tables, shelves, mattresses and pillows in their cells. They used the solid objects to bang on cell doors and threw the cell furnishings out into the corridor.

Three guards were on duty. Twenty-two more guards were called back to duty to help quell the riot.

The guards used "a little squirt of tear gas" to subdue the rioting prisoners, Frady said. The tear gas was shot "selectively" from a fire extinguisher type of dispenser into the cells of each of the rioting convicts.

IN ISOLATION

Frady said the tear gas helped quell the riot in a short time. The convicts were taken out of their cells and instructed to clean up the mess. The 20 rioters were then put into isolation cells.

"Something like this happens spontaneously and gets contagious," Frady said.

Prison officials said today they still had no suspects in Chacon's stabbing. Chacon, a convicted rapist from Los Angeles County, was stabbed as he walked down a stairway in the adjustment center on his way to lunch at noon.

The weapon, a sharpened, stainless steel table knife, was found on the roof of the prison's library building. Chacon had attempted suicide Wednesday by slashing his right wrist with a razor blade.

HALF-MILLION DOLLAR TREASURE—Mill Valley Police Officer John Castellani and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dorland deliver famed "Virgin of Kazan," one of three Russian "miracle icons," to Crocker-Citizens National Bank after it had been kept in Mill Valley police vault. Secret location of icon was disclosed by British Broadcasting Co.

AFTER NIGHT IN JAIL

$500,000 Icon Put In Mill Valley Bank

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"The Black Virgin," valued at more than $500,000, spent the last two nights in the Mill Valley jail.

The "Virgin," a Russian icon, which, according to legend, helped defeat Napoleon in Moscow, was kept under police guard in the police vault because no bank was open when it arrived in the Bay Area Saturday, handcuffed to a priest.

The icon, studded with 1,000 emeralds, diamonds, rubies, sapphires and pearls, was moved by officers shortly after 10 a.m. today to the safekeeping of the Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Mill Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dorland, Mill Valley art conservators and guardians of the icon, breathed a sigh of relief after the art treasure was safe in the bank.

Dorland said he had been trying to keep the whereabouts of the piece quiet but yesterday the British Broadcasting Co. "announced to the world that the icon was in Mill Valley."

Prior to its recent trip to New York City, the icon had been transferred from bank to bank to keep its presence as secret as possible, Dorland explained.

The icon, 12 and ½ inches by 10 and ⅝ inches in size, has been the object of some controversy in that three churches within the Russian Orthodox Church have been seeking it. Also bandied about, said Dorland, is that the icon is a fake which, he said, is untrue.

Dorland said the "Black Virgin" is rightly called the "Virgin of Kazan" and is one of three so-called miracle icons of Russia. It is owned by Miss Anna Mitchell-Hedges of England.

During the burning of Moscow at the high mark of Napoleon's invasion of Russia, Dorland explained, Marshall Koutesov went to the church and removed the icon and showed it to the troops. It gave them so much fire that the

Race Equality Coordinating Council Forms

The Coordinating Council for Racial Equality in Marin was formally organized Saturday to provide assistance to all organizations "actively involved in establishing racial equality in Marin."

Proposed last month by the Marin Committee for Fair Play, the council will "enable such organizations to exchange information about their activities and encourage active cooperation and mutual support in such areas as are deemed essential in the establishment of racial equality."

Temporary officers elected to serve until a second meeting in January are Rev. Karel T. Botermans of the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin, chairman; Douglas Quiett, president of Marin Congress of Racial Equality, vice chairman, and H. Dieter Schugt of the San Rafael First Presbyterian Church social action committee, secretary.

CORE Pickets Realty Office In Mill Valley

Marin Congress of Racial Equality today announced plans to again picket Walburn Realty of Mill Valley next weekend, reporting no negotiations resulting from picketing Saturday and yesterday at the office at 90 East Blithedale Avenue.

Picketing began after CORE charged Mrs. Mat Walburn had told a Negro woman she did not have an apartment for rent at $105 per month, but later showed the apartment to two white persons.

Mrs. Walburn said today she would make no comment. Her attorney, Julius H. Selinger, was unavailable for comment, being in court.

Douglas Quiett, CORE chairman, said a total of 75 persons picketed Saturday and 97 yesterday with 30 to 40 on each of three different shifts.

Among the picketers was Dr. Daniel A. Collins, newly appointed to the state board of education and a Mill Valley resident.

Picketing was conducted from 10 a.m. until dusk each day, with pickets circling back and forth in front of the realty firm and getting hot cups of coffee occasionally from a car parked nearby.

Women Jailed In Robbery Admit Marin Motel Theft

Oakland police yesterday arrested three women after a $200 hold-up of a grocery store, and two of them have confessed the Nov. 10 armed robbery of the Alto Motel near Mill Valley, according to Inspector Bowen Bridges of the sheriff's office.

The two are Paula Anne Haley, 23, and Patricia Ann Racine, 25, both of San Francisco. Also arrested was Marilyn E. Lemons, who has not admitted being involved.

Bridges said he would take the victim, Mrs. Edith Lucille Koons, 56, operator of the Alto Motel, at 817 Redwood Highway, to Oakland today to try to identify the two women, who, she said, slugged her and robbed her of $100.

When they admitted the Mill Valley crime, they said they used a baseball bat to beat Mrs. Koons, Bridges reported, but the wounds indicate a different weapon was used.

The women were wearing white jeans, cowboy boots and hats and had mannish haircuts, police said.

Mrs. Koons also reported the mannish appearance of the robbers after the crime.

She said she had just rented a room to the pair and had been paid with a $20 bill. She started to her living quarters to get the change and was hit over the head from behind.

Three Dead, 20 Missing In Fire

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Fire swept through a block of hotels and rooming houses near the famed Atlantic City Boardwalk today, killing at least three persons and leaving 20 missing.

Earlier police reports had 25 persons unaccounted for but Capt. Hubert Bourbon said a check of Atlantic City Hospital and persons involved dropped the number to 23. Then three bodies were recovered from the ruins of the Surfside Hotel, where the blaze started.

All the missing had been staying at the Surfside. Police and firemen probed the ruins after the fire was out and newsmen counted three bodies being carried from the debris.

The search continued for more possible victims of the blaze that destroyed five hotel buildings and a rooming house.

Sabin Says Polio Epidemics Possible

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The discoverer of the Sabin oral polio vaccine says California is still vulnerable to polio epidemics.

Dr. Albert Sabin, visiting Los Angeles yesterday to dedicate a new medical research building at Mount Sinai Hospital, said that "only 60 per cent of the 4.5 million people in the Los Angeles area have taken the vaccine."

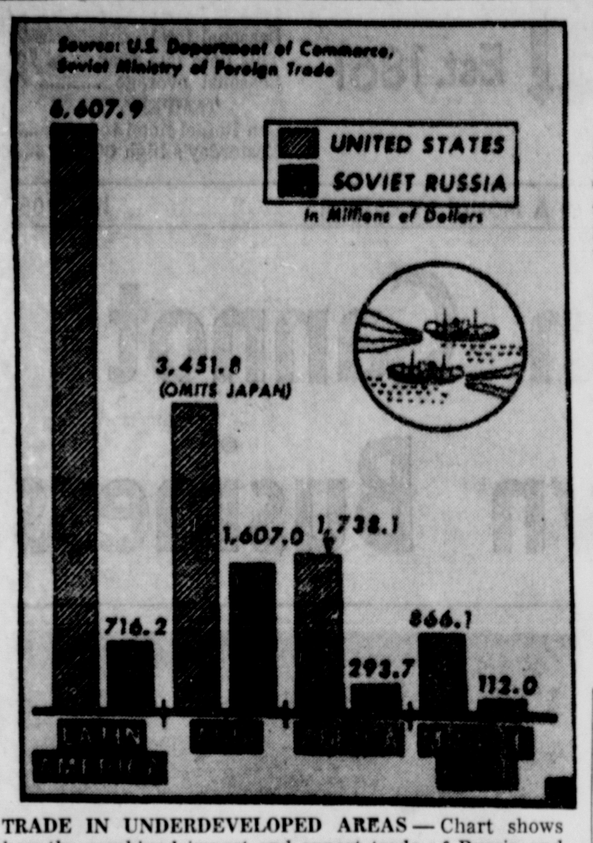
Kremlin A Puny Rival With U. S. In Trade



TRADE IN UNDERDEVELOPED AREAS — Chart shows how the combined import and export trade of Russia and the United States compare in the underdeveloped areas of the world. Japan is omitted in Asia because of its advanced industrialized economy. But U.S. trade with Japan was 10 times that of the USSR. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russian trade-and-aid offensive, launched a decade ago to try to sweep new and neutral nations into the Communist camp, is a growing disappointment to the Kremlin.

Even in Moscow confidence has dimmed, American government analysts report, that the emerging countries of Africa and Asia soon will reject capialism in a great "national-liberation movement."

And comparisons of 1962 trade data now available confirm that Russia remains a puny commercial rival of the United States in all but a few limited areas of the non-Communist world.

Two-thirds of Russia's trade continues to be with its captive market, the Communist bloc in Europe, but its goal of "burying" the United States as the foremost trading nation depends on the penetration of the vast and swiftly growing Western markets and the developing nations.

Russian progress has been substantial, considering that the Soviets started virtually from scratch. But Washington's concern is less with the trade volume—as an entire bloc the Communist group generates only 5 per cent of world commerce—than with the political and propaganda impact of the Soviet economic warfare.

Officials suspect that Russia gets more political mileage per ruble of foreign aid than the United States gets per dollar.

Soviet aid programs are inexpensive, shrewdly aimed at the West's worst trouble spots, designed for maximum pay-off in political or military advantage and magnified by adroit propaganda techniques.

But analysts who advise the State Department and Congress now note rising skepticism toward the Marxist promise even in the under-developed lands where Russia has poured out rubles and promises.

U.S. expert, Leon Herman, Soviet economic analyst for the Library of Congress, told an interviewer that Russian leaders "realize matters are less promising than they had hoped," but have not altered their plans or diminished their efforts.

"They feel they can create hostility for the developed countries among the underdeveloped—can convince them that they are the victims of capitalist exploitation," Herman explained.

Russia showed a 19 per cent gain in 1962 in trade with non-Communist countries. That was twice the U.S. percentage rise, but percentages are deceptive. The actual Soviet increase was 650 million dollars, with imports up 200 million dollars. The U.S. gain to the same areas was 3 billion dollars; imports rose by 1.7 billion dollars.

That meant that the United States, which already provided a market eight times greater than Russia's for the goods and raw materials of the non-Communist world, enlarged that market by an amount eight times than the Russian increase.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev told an American editor in 1957:

"We declare war upon you . . . in the peaceful field of trade. We declare war. We will win . . . we are relentless in this and it will prove the superiority of our system."

The neutrals seem less and less impressed with Khrushchev's predictions. Three young African states which flirted seriously with communism—Ghana, Guinea and Mali—have pulled back despite Russia's intensive wooing with financial and military aid and small armies of technicians.

India, Asian leader of the neutrals, has turned its eyes Westward and acknowledged closer rapport with the democracies. One U.S. expert, after reciting the list, remarked to a reporter:

"Except for the one maniac in Cuba, they are not taking the Russian bait."

But officials point out that Russia has established firm influence in the economies of India, the UAR, Cuba, Afghanistan and Indonesia. Together these five get two-thirds of all Soviet foreign aid.

And the analysts note that Russia's aid program—consisting almost entirely of long-term, low-interest loans whose annual cost is a mere fraction of the U.S. aid total—serves its purpose when it merely creates friction between the West and the neutrals, or makes the latter more demanding, or pries open the door to an influx of Soviet technicians.

Baghdad Reports Iraq Coup

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Baghdad radio reported today that Iraq's army and Air Force deposed the nation's Baathist regime and installed President Abdul Salam Mohammed Aref as junta chairman with "exceptional powers."

Aref

President Gamal Abdul Nasser's United Arab Republic immediately offered support for Aref, who has expressed pro-Nasser views in the past.

There were indications the revolt was meeting resistance. Although the radio broadcast no reports of fighting, it ordered the disbanding of Iraq's national guard.

The coup brought an end to the nine-month regime of Premier Ahmed Hassan Bakr, who took power himself through a coup against Premier Abdul Karim Kassem last February.

Guardsman Saved By Russ Is Dead

STONY CREEK, N.Y. (AP) — Exactly three months after he was plucked from the ocean by Russian fishermen, Capt. Hugh A. Levallee guided his jet fighter through clouds over the Adirondack Mountains and disappeared.

Levallee

That was Saturday. His remains were found yesterday in the wreckage of his Massachusetts Air National Guard plane 13 miles west of Stony Creek. The plane had slammed into a mountain.

Levallee, 29, of Springfield, Mass., apparently had no chance to parachute, an Air Force spokesman said.

Three months ago, Levallee ejected from a disabled jet over the Atlantic. He was pulled from the water by the crew of a Russian fishing trawler.

Rocky Says Barry Will Have To Shift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller does some Capitol Hill politicking today after firing off a charge that Sen. Barry Goldwater does not represent a consensus of Republican thinking.

The New York governor, a declared candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, made that allegation yesterday on the CBS television program "Face the Nation" and again as he arrived in Washington to buttonhole senators in a search for convention support.

The Republican platform in 1964 will represent "the mainstream of Republican thought," Rockefeller told newsmen at Washington National Airport. And then, carrying his theme out, he said he assumes Goldwater will "have shifted his position prior to the convention" in order to run on such a platform.

On the nationwide television interview, broadcast from St. Louis, Rockefeller made a similar pitch by saying Goldwater may have trouble explaining to the voters the switches he would have to make to win the nomination.

Goldwater served Saturday as best man at the wedding of an old friend, Lyle O. Snader, president of Capitol Hill's Quorum Club, while leaders of the drive to make Goldwater the presidential nominee met to plan strategy.

Peter O'Donnell Jr., Republican state chairman of Texas and head of the national draft Goldwater organization, said he thinks at least 500 convention votes already are in the Goldwater column. Nomination will require 655.

LOOT CUT DOWN

Thievery Spoiled By Hostage Horde

NEW YORK (AP) — With the city still laughing about Manhattan's comically abortive gem robbery two weeks ago, another masterpiece of jewel theft buffonery took place yesterday.

Unlike the misguided 3-million-dollar holdup of Nov. 8 in which the loot was left behind, two bandits escaped with $55,000 in gems yesterday. But the intruders found themselves overrun with hostages.

Toward the end, things got so crowded in the plush East Side apartment of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gurian that the two badmen had all they could do to maintain order.

As a result, Gurian said, the thieves left behind more jewelry than they took.

Police estimated that the jewels left behind are worth $100,000. Gurian estimated his loss at $55,000.

The invaders, one carrying a bouquet as a ruse and the other a gun, collected an elevator operator and a delicatessen deliveryman en route to the apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Gurian had just settled down to a wedding anniversary breakfast served by their maid. Mrs. Gurian rushed to a telephone and shouted "Help — Help" before it was slammed down by one bandit.

The call brought another elevator operator on the run. He was ushered into the apartment at gunpoint.

Sometime during the rapid-fire activity, the bandits managed to find the gems.

Their foraging was cut short, however, when Mrs. Gurian again broke loose and darted into the hall, the robbers in hot pursuit. They met headon with a doorman, and a brief scuffle ensued before the robbers broke away and scrambled down 12 flights of stairs to the street.

They commandeered a taxicab and forced the driver to take them several blocks away where one debarked. A few blocks beyond, the other robber left the cab. Neither bothered to pay the fare.

Gurian is a vice president of the Wall Street firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith.

SAN MATEO (AP) — Burglars escaped with $50,000 worth of gems from a department store early yesterday, using tools from the store's hardware section to break open a safe.

Officers said electric drills, hacksaws and pry bars were used to open the jewelry department safe at the U-Save Department Store.

They said the burglars entered the building by sawing a hole in the roof.

'Samaritans' Just Too Depressing

BEDFORD, England (UPI)—A local bus company today rejected an anti-suicide group's advertising posters because they would "depress passengers."

The posters, offered by the "Bedford Samaritans," read: "Despair? If you are in despair and tempted to suicide and don't know where to turn for help, ring Samaritans, BEdford 2200."

Stuffers Set Mark

WHEATON, Ill. (UPI)—Wheaton College students today claimed a world's record after 54 of them crowded into a hearse Saturday.

100 YEARS AGO—Morris Steinour of Gettysburg, Pa., who makes a hobby of portraying Lincoln, holds two of his 10 children, Mary, 3, and David, 5, at a Lincoln Monument near the spot where the president made his historical address at Gettysburg 100 years ago. New Music At Seminary Impressive And Perfect

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Yesterday afternoon's opening program in the new "Music at the Seminary" monthly concerts was everything that Marin chamber music lovers might have anticipated.

The concert, which drew a near-capacity audience to Montgomery Chapel of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, featured music for strings and organ. It also marked the beginning of the second year for the Marin Pro Musica singers.

Wilbur F. Russell, organist, acting head of the seminary's sacred music department and director of Marin Pro Musica, selected for this first concert mostly 17th and 18th Century compositions which are seldom heard.

Most impressive were Buxtehude's "In Dulci Jubilo" and Vierdanck's "I Bring Good Tidings." In these numbers the organ played by Russell, violins by Miriam McArdle and Winifred Bullock, cello by Eugene Winkler and the 14 singers made a rich textured combination. Dynamics were admirably controlled by Russell not to exceed what the small chapel can tolerate.

In the three selections performed by the springs and organ, in the first one, "Trio Sonata Opus 5, No. 1" by Handel, it seemed that the cello was going to be overpowered in the higher notes by the violins and in the lower ones by the organ, but in the "Trio Sonata No. 2" by Boyce and Mozart's three church sonatas, the balance was perfect.

Russell's performance of the very intricate and difficult canonic variations on "Von Himmel Hoch Da Kommi'ich Her" by J. S. Bach revealed the full extent of his technical command and insight into the depth of the work.

In a lighter note, that was enhanced by the singers' evident delight in performing them, were the three carols from 16th Century Spain. Sung a cappela except for a castanet with the first and tambourine with the third, they were gaily rhythmical and skilfully varied in dynamic effects.

A year's experience in singing together has done much for the Marin Pro Musica singers.

FRIED CHICKEN RATES HIGHEST IN TAM SURVEY

Fried chicken, pizza and hamburgers, in that order, are the favorite foods of Tamalpais High School students, a student news survey revealed today.

The chicken choice puts Tampalais out of step with the national first choice of hamburgers, according to reporter Pam Mathi.

Least liked foods at Tamalpais rank in this order: Liver, with 61 per cent voting against; spinach, 20 per cent; and broccoli, 19 per cent. Squash was written in by many under "dislikes," said reporter Mathi.

Mennen Heiress Dies At 80

DETROIT (UPI) — Mrs. Henry P. Williams, 80, an heiress of the Mennen Toiletries fortune and mother of former Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams, died during the weekend.

Williams, now an assistant secretary of state for African affairs, was at her bedside in Jennings Memorial Hospital when she died.

A native of Newark, N. J., Mrs. Williams was the daughter of the founder of the Mennen Co. of Newark. In 1909, she married Henry P. Williams, a prominent Detroit businessman who died in 1941.

Mrs. Williams was a staunch Republican although her son was a six-term Democratic governor. She supported her son in his campaigns, often saying that "blood is thicker than politics."

Mariner Cove School Bus Service May Be Cut Down

School bus service to the Mariner Cove area of Corte Madera may be curtailed unless more riders are found, Herbert Leney, president of the Mariner Cove Improvement Assn. warned Saturday.

There are 47 bus passengers now and 40 more are needed to make the bus run financially feasible, he said.

The association helped arrange for the bus service this year after the Larkspur School District stopped its service.

Bus tickets are available at the Redwood High School book store, St. Patrick's School and the Paradise Pharmacy.

Association members made plans for a Christmas home lighting contest at a quarterly meeting Friday at San Clemente School. Byron White was named chairman of the contest.

Leney also reported that the association has requested more "slow signs" for the area and action by the Corte Madera Town Council on proposed countywide animal control ordinance.

Although the area of Washington, D.C., is only 69 square miles, it has 764,000 population, more than 11 of the 50 states.

Gettysburg Address Called Memorial To Liberty For All

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address is an "enduring memorial to the apostles of liberty for all men," Secretary of State Dean Rusk declared yesterday.

Rusk recalled that it was Lincoln who, 100 years ago in this historic battlefield, rededicated this country to "the ideas about freedom and human dignity which gave birth to our nation."

He called upon all Americans to complete the task of creating full equality in the spirit of Lincoln's classic speech.

The secretary spoke at the opening of a three-day observance of the Gettysburg address centennial.

"It is past time to complete the task which Lincoln began with the Emancipation Proclamation," he said. "We must complete it as a duty to ourselves."

"The rest of the world is watching closely the struggle for full equality in this country. Our failures distress our friends and hearten our enemies."

The average individual's lifetime earning power is increased by $175,000 to $200,000 if he spends at least four years in college.

MINOR GRADY

Minor William Grady, 58, a San Anselmo carpenter, was found dead Saturday in his car parked near the Wade Thomas School, where he was working on a construction job.

Asst. County Coroner William C. Bradley said some children saw Grady in his car and thought he was asleep but later called their parents, who notified San Anselmo police. Grady has been dead about 26 hours when police investigated Saturday at 6 p.m. He apparently collapsed after he got into his car after work Friday afternoon, Bradley said.

Cause of death was probably a heart attack, Bradley said, and an autopsy will be performed.

Grady was employed by Zoellner Construction Co. of Ross. He was a resident of Marin about three years, at 118 Terrace Avenue, San Anselmo.

He was a native of Michigan.

He leaves his mother, Nettie Grady, two brothers, Albert Grady and Floyd Grady, all of Lima, Ohio; and a sister, Mrs. Oliver Maxwell of Lafayette, Ohio.

The body will be sent by Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, to Lima, Ohio, for funeral and burial.

ONE CAR DID ALL THIS DAMAGE

Crewmen work to clear the wreckage of a car-train accident about 12 miles east of Beaumont, Tex. The crash, at noon yesterday, was fatal to two persons in the car, and derailed several rail cars and blocked the Southern Pacific's main artery of traffic from New Orleans. (AP Wirephoto)

Terra Linda Zone Request On Tap Tonight

A Terra Linda zoning proposal that departs from the usual in that it is expected to raise little outcry will be given public hearing by the San Rafael City Council tonight at 8 o'clock in City Hall.

The proposal is for zoning of Terra Linda Unit 20, now unclassified, for single-family homes with lots no less than 10,000 square feet.

SOME OUTCRY

The land, like much of that still undeveloped in the Terra Linda annexations to San Rafael, has never been zoned. Proposals for apartments and "planned community" development of some such lands have brought heavy outcry of late from Terra Linda homeowners.

Two appeals from the planning commission decisions also will be heard. They concern an office building being remodeled by Eugene Treasrau at 1108 Tamalpais Avenue, and Harry Kirsner's proposed Hillside Avenue subdivision.

FIRE STATION

Roger F. Hooper and Associates, architects, seek council go-ahead for design of the city's fourth fire station, in Glenwood.

Kaehler-Farrar Development Co. seek a permit for a fire line to encroach on C Street to serve the nearly completed Kaehler-Farrar Building at Fourth and C streets.

Appointments of a police lieutenant and sergeant, twice postponed, are again on the agenda.

Missing from the agenda is the delayed consideration of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s proposal for the first project to put downtown utility lines underground.

DUKE TO GIVE STAMPS TO HOME VISITORS

BEDFORD, England (AP) — The Duke of Bedford announced today he will give trading stamps to winter visitors to Woburn Abbey, his stately home.

"They seem good for other peoples' business," said the Duke, "so why not for mine?"

The duke charges admission to the ancient house. Two years ago he installed juke boxes and slot machines.

Among other things, he is trying to pay off a 14-million-dollar death duty on the vast estate he inherited from his father.

School Court Taking Shape

Appearing before Redwood High School's student court may soon be a legal experience almost equal to being hauled before a municipal or superior court.

A bill setting forth rights and procedures of the court has been discussed by the school's legislative assembly. After further discussions a vote will be taken on the bill, according to assembly president Lawrence Herst.

The bill formalizes procedures of the court, which has been operating under unwritten rules.

It provides for due process of law, trial only on specific charges, five days for preparation of defense, introduction of specific evidence and keeping of public records.

If a person fails to appear at his trial, the case would be postponed at least five days. At the defendant's appearance, he must submit "just cause" for his absence or be held in contempt of court, according to the proposed bill.

Driver Is Fined

George Donald Meadows, 60, of Berkeley, was fined $166 Friday in Marin Municipal Court after pleading guilty to drunken driving. He was arrested Nov. 10 by the California Highway Patrol on Tiburon Boulevard, Tiburon.

$300 Report Tells How City Can Park Autos

If the City of San Rafael sells its old city hall property, it should simply move double-decking of the municipal parking lot at Fifth Avenue and C Street to first priority to meet off-street parking requirements, says D. Jackson Faustman of Sacramento.

Faustman, consultant to the city on parking, gave that answer in a report which cost the city $300 and will be considered by the council at its meeting at 8 o'clock tonight.

The city council, through City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, asked Faustman to update his findings of last December regarding further development of off-street parking. At that time, Faustman suggested the city hall property be turned into a parking lot to provide 76 more off-street spaces before opening of the Northgate Shopping Center, which is scheduled for next April.

In his new report, the Sacramento consultant says nothing has changed since his previous findings; therefore, if the city wishes to sell the city hall property, the Fifth Avenue-C Street lot, next behind it in priority on his previous list, would become No. 1.

Unmentioned in the new report is the fast that the city now expects to continue o occupy he present city hall until completion of a new one on property purchased on Fifth Avenue between the city library and C Street—which will be more than a year after the scheduled Northgate opening.

Sex Held Used As Means To Escape Pain Of Living

Sex is being abused as an escape from the "pain of living," a counselor for the Family Service Agency of Marin County told a conference in San Francisco Saturday.

Jeanne Knakal of San Rafael, psychiatric social worker for the agency, spoke to members of the Family Service Assn. of America, meeting at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

Most of the men and women who seek help from the agency's San Rafael office suffer from what she called "normlessness" in sexual relationships—an absence of positive standards which leads to "casual and fleeting sexual liaisons."

Such people "utilize their expression of sex to produce momentary anesthesia against the pain of living . . . romance addicts have joined the ranks of the other addicted," she said. "A valid sense of wholeness is lost in the endless reaching for momentary pleasure—the groping, relentless pursuit of new sensations.

"In pushing to the furthest reaches of the frontier, some men and women have arrived at a point where personal realization no longer seems possible," she said.

Contrary to assumptions that sexual maladjustment arises from ignorance or sexual repression, more than 27 per cent of the family problems in Marin resulted from lack of "moral standards and difficulty in forming mature sexual relationships," Miss Knakal said.

Only 2.5 per cent of the 571 persons who asked for help were in trouble because of ignorance about sex, she said. Miss Knakal said mass entertainment media and commerce were partly at fault for using sex as "a means to achieve commercial ends . . . the message conveyed to the bored and depressed is that meaning and value in life is possible only through this one avenue of expression."

She said mere sexual thrills should not replace mature sexual union.

Miss Knakal, formerly with the Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute in San Francisco, has been employed at the Marin service agency since September, 1962.

Rallies Voluntary Now At Drake High

Sir Francis Drake High School students won't any longer have to attend football rallies and other such "school spirit" rallies unless they feel in the mood.

The school's student assembly has passed a bill which makes the rallies voluntary. Since the school opened in 1951, everybody has been expected to go to the rallies. Now, students may spend the time in study hall if they prefer.

Telephone Books Being Sold At Drake

Student telephone directories are being sold at Sir Francis Drake High School this week to raise money for the school's sister school in Escalantes, Mexico.

The Mexican School Aid Committee has sent more than $500 to the Mexican school for a new roof, furniture, books and distribution of milk, sugar and vitamins since the sister program began at Sir Francis Drake High in 1959.

Art Buchwald first trained his gun sights on Washington just one year ago. The ensuing carnage has made strong men blanch and millions of readers roar.

"At the time, there were those who doubted that Buchwald would find anything funny about Washington," wrote TIME Magazine recently. "But the fears proved groundless. Buchwald simply invented his own Washington."

Even so, stuffed shirts in both parties have come down with severe perforations, and national idiocies have been blown to bits.

Eighteen million readers find that Washington is indeed a pretty funny place when it's "Buchwald's Washington."

Water Report Puts Squeeze On Grandiose State Plan

State water officials seem to have their Marin County answer. They pressed hard for it in an Oct. 2 session at the Civic Center, said there must be a Dec. 31 deadline for participation in the state's proposed big North Bay Aqueduct project, and were told that nothing could be settled as to supplemental water for Marin before mid-November.

Strictly speaking the thing isn't settled yet. But the joint report by Marin County's committee comprising Bill Seeger and Jerry Gilbert went before Marin Municipal Water District directors last week, will be considered tonight by North Marin County Water District directors. It makes so much sense that we can hardly imagine any disregarding of its recommendation in favor of the Russian River Project.

This was foreshadowed by the facts as they developed.

One of the recently developed facts was a tentative approval by Sonoma County supervisors Nov. 4 of an "agreement of understanding" whereby Russian River water would be shared by Sonoma County and by the two large Marin County water districts in long-range water resource projects. Mendocino and Napa water districts may later come in and the sharing of costs and benefits within the next century may include diversion of Eel River water.

Anyone desiring full information on the whole situation may bury himself in the two-volume report compiled by the Messrs. Seeger and Gilbert, but most of us lazy and full of faith will rest content. The biggest point of interest now, as we see things, is with regard to the state's attitude about the North Bay Aqueduct concerning which here's the Seeger-Gilbert view:

". . . The two districts should defer but not decline the possibility of contracting with the Department of Water Resources of the State of California for water to be delivered from the Delta through a North Bay Aqueduct. This deferment should be based upon the announced commitments by the State of California to provide water supplies where needed in all areas of the state, to protect the areas of the origin of water supply by providing increasing amounts of conserved water in the Delta area, and to construct the second stage of the California water facility for the delivery of substantial additional supplies into the Delta by 1975-1980.

Our guess is that this is going to leave state officials hopping around like cats in fly-paper. They aren't going to be happy either about a Marin decision in localized action for Russian River water as first choice, or in a reminder that their duties place them essentially in a subordinate or service role where local representatives of state taxpayers call the turn. The people are boss.

What they want, naturally, is a decision to rely exclusively on the aqueduct on which they'd like to start construction "about Jan. 2" according to State Water Resources Director William E. Warne. He "warned" on Oct. 2 that the start on that date depended on Marin-Sonoma-Solano-Napa sign-up for 75 per cent of their allocated possibilities.

Well, let's wait and see. Can a rebuffed state group throw us clear off the North Bay Aqueduct water wagon as was hinted by Warne when he said we'd sign up or "this opportunity will be past"? He admitted that even so, there would be other later opportunities though at higher cost.

Marin's Convival Bush Tits

Few non-migrating birds love a crowd as much as do the bush tits.

Except for the few weeks of mating and nesting season, bush tits travel in flocks. Such behavior seems to fit in perfectly with their friendly, sociable nature. They are tiny birds. Perhaps they feel more safety in large groups.

We enjoy their peeping, fluttering, constantly moving bunches in our trees and berry bushes.

Bush tits are everybody's friend—happy little critters. Most bird-loving Marinites are extremely fond of these small fellows.

Schools, Bonds And Water All Simmer In Political Pot

By CAPITOL NEWS SERVICE

NEXT FEBRUARY'S budget session of the California legislature might well be a replay of the similar session in 1962, according to Hale Champion, state director of finance.

Champion said the 1964-65 budget could be financed without new or increased taxes and could leave a surplus of 20 million dollars on June 30, 1965.

But Champion said the state again would have to go into the bond barrel, with another 550 to 650 million dollars in bonds proposed to be put before the people.

Of this total, from 250 to 300 million dollars would be for loans for classroom construction for elementary and high schools. The other 300 million dollars would be needed for construction of state institutions, primarily for higher educational facilities. Water is a big factor.

A 150 MILLION DOLLAR bond issue for beach and park acquisition and development, similar to the one rejected by the voters in 1962, was approved by the 1963 legislature and also will appear on an election ballot in 1964.

In the 1962 session, Republicans forced all of the bond issues — five of them — to go on the June primary election ballot. Only two of them were approved — for school and veterans' loans.

The state construction bond issue was resubmitted in November and approved. However, Governor Edmund G. Brown and others said part of the reason for the failure of the bond issues in June was that too many appeared on the same ballot.

It is considered likely the GOP may attempt to put all the bond issues on the same ballot again in 1964 in an attempt to embarrass the administration and legislative Democratic leaders.

ONE BIG ITEM to come before the 1964 session, as could be expected, will be that of additional school financing by the state. The California Teachers' Assn. has indicated it again will be seeking some 75 million dollars annually in state support.

While a 100 million dollar program for two years had been considered this year, the special session of the lawmakers last summer found only 25 million dollars added to the state's share of educational costs.

The CTA said the state has been neglecting public school needs for at least 10 years and its subcommittee on financing and public education, recommended the 75 million dollars be added next year to the 100 million dollars originally asked.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

James P. Stuart Is Not Happy

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On Friday, Oct. 11, 1963, the Independent-Journal saw fit to publish the following:

"Complaints by Mr. and Mrs. James P. Stuart against the judges in Marin County's courts will be heard by the Marin County Grand Jury.

"The Stuarts filed suit months ago against McPhail's, Inc., building company, and then asked various judges to disqualify themselves and complained of prejudicial action by judges."

On Friday, Nov. 8, the Independent-Journal saw fit to publish a puerile essay entitled "I-J Reporter's Notebook" by one Robert M. Coppock, and gratuitously stated:

"Speaking of the court and its critics, perhaps the county's two loudest critics have been strangely quiet.

"Mr. and Mrs. James Stuart appeared before the grand jury to complain about their treatment in Marin Municipal Court when Stuart acted as his own attorney in a suit against McPhail's, Inc., over some patio supplies.

"Later, on an appeal, just about every Superior Court judge in sight disqualified himself in the case when the Stuarts claimed the judges were prejudiced. So a big blast was expected at the meeting of the grand jury, which has been having a rather quiet year so far.

"But the Stuarts were told they would have to testify under oath, and also were asked to give evidence to back up their claims. They decided to stay silent."

The naivete and stupidity of this Robert M. Coppock surpasses belief. With a blatant disregard for decency and honesty he has made a false and vicious attack upon Mrs. Stuart and me.

The above quoted statements . . . are libelous in their entirety to Mrs. Stuart, and they are libelous in their entirety to me.

Furthermore, Presiding Judge N. Charles Brusatori, Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety, Grand Jury Foreman Edwin A. Wells, Grand Jury Secretary Donald F. Donohue, and every member of the 1963 Marin County Grand Jury present during Mrs. Stuart's and my some ten or fifteen minutes with the Grand Jury on Thursday evening, October 24, 1963, as well as the official Court Reporter, know both of the above quoted articles are dishonest, false and void of decency or responsible reporting.

The 1963 Marin County Grand Jury also knows we stand ready, willing and able to appear and testify whenever it is prepared to perform its sworn duty in the old - fashioned democratic American way. That is, obtain counsel from outside Northern California to replace Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety (because of his proven partisanship and lack of objectivity in the matter) in thoroughly, objectively and non - partisanly investigating the facts of the matter and then take our sworn testimony.

Therefore, demand is hereby made on behalf of Mrs. Stuart and me that an immediate retraction be published as conspicuously as these unfortunate articles were published, correcting the false and defamatory statements therein contained.

The recent rains caused a mud slide on Scenic and Fifth Aves.

It is the result of allowing builders without the proper precautions, such as retaining walls etc., to tear out a hill and left the results up to the taxpayers.

How Much 'Problem' Is Marijuana?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Norman Taylor (in Drugs: Nature's Dangerous Gifts) calls cannabis (marijuana) "a relatively innocuous weed."

Robert S. DeRopp, a biochemist specializing in drugs of the mind, says "There is no such thing as a genuine addition to hashish or any other preparation of cannabis." (Drugs of the Mind)

In Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, the authors state:

"We do not know of any objective study showing a a direct or causative relationship between marijuana and violent crime. . . On the contrary most (marijuana users) appear to be rather indolent, ineffectual young men and women. . ."

On the other hand, in an article prepared by the World Narcotic Defense Assn.: "Marijuana is a most virile and powerful stimulant. . . Prolonged use of marijuana frequently develops a delirious rage (leading) to assault and murder."

I haven't smoked marijuana in years — I just drink beer nowadays. But as I remember my friends, they simply got giggly, sleepy. Actually marijuana is a non-addicting non-opiate depressant, similar in effect to alcohol. And only a very few who smoke marihuana venture into the dangerous realm of hard narcotics — and if these were not available, the people would become alcoholics. Many do, in fact, since hard narcotics addicts are awfully hard to find.

In The Traffic In Narcotics, a recent commissioner of narcotics excitedly (and awfully illogically) declares:

"That there is a present problem in narcotics is well evidenced by the continual stream of stories that appear in the daily press and in other journals. . ."

Yes, that a significant number of people get excited over something, consider it bad, changeable — that does make a "problem." But we should not only deeply inspect — but suspect — our problems.

On the wall of a building near his residence, Mike Nichols noticed a chalk inscription one morning that read "I LOVE GRILS." The next morning a line had been drawn through this declaration and a new line printed below that read "I LOVE GIRLS." The third day that line had been crossed out, too, and a third line substituted — in letters twice as large. It read, "WHAT ABOUT US GRILS?"

Sir John M. Stow, K.C.M.G., the extremely popular governor of the island of Barbados in the British West Indies, tells of the moment, during Winston Churchill's visit there, when a photographer for the local newspaper, The Advocate, said respectfully, "I hope, Sir Winston, I'll have the privilege of snapping you again when you celebrate your hundredth birthday." "No reason you shouldn't," replied Sir Winston, "if you just take good care of yourself."

New South Viet Nam Government Finds Old Troubles Waiting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The generals in South Viet Nam solved one set of problems with Dinh Diem and his troublesome brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, both of whom were killed. But there are others.

The brothers, after nine years in power, never solved them.

Now it's the turn of the generals who are running the country.

WILL THEY be able to:

Steer it in a democratic direction? Diem didn't. His was a dictatorship.

Wage successful war against the Communists? Diem didn't.

Avoid conflicts, intrigues, jealousies, explosions? Diem didn't.

WILL THE generals, through reforms and programs of benefit, be able to give the masses of Viet Nam a reason for caring who wins? Diem didn't. The mass of the 17 million Vietnamese live in enormous and primitive poverty.

Buddhists make up 70 per cent of the population, Roman Catholics 10 per cent. Catholic Diem repressed the Buddhists.

Will the Buddhists try to retaliate against Catholics now for what Diem did? It's a haunting possibility.

DIEM BEGAN his repressions in May when his government troops, firing on a Buddhist demonstration in Hue, killed nine people. The Buddhists had been complaining that Diem was discriminating against them.

This could not be blamed on the Catholic Church. In the tortured and gory months that followed the May shootings, Pope Paul VI expressed "apprehension and anguish" over the situation.

As if he had listened to a voice coming to him over more than 400 years, a 73-year-old Buddhist priest, Quang Duc, drenched in gasoline, lit a match and burned himself to death in protest against Diem's policies.

THE BURNING monk in Viet Nam shocked the world, pointed up for all to see as perhaps nothing else could the dilemma of the Buddhists, to sacrifice themselves, too.

Seven of them made candles of themselves before the generals devastated Diem and his brother Nov. 1.

Victory in the field against the Communists is not final victory.

The new government in Viet Nam, even if it wins the fighting wars, will have to find an answer to offset the Communist promises. The answer lies in programs of benefit to give the masses a reason for not choosing communism.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Kennedy Quotes Are Cut From Civil Rights Report

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee is issuing a "majority report" on the intensely controversial civil rights bill. Like the latter, the report is a watered-down version of what the White House proposed.

Deleted from the report — originally drafted in the White House — are a number of references to and quotations from President Kennedy.

Republican committeemen strenuously objected to these inclusions because of their political nature. To preserve the bipartisan coalition that formulated the compromise civil rights measure, the challenged material was eliminated from the first portion of the report under the title, "General Statement."

A MINORITY report is being prepared by John Satterfield, Yazoo, Miss., former president of the American Bar Assn. It will be signed by Republican and Southern committeemen.

The majority report consists of two principal parts; a 1500-word introduction dealing with the purpose and history of the legislation, and a voluminous analysis of every provision in the bill. This detailed explanation constitutes the bulk of the report.

Foremost among the deletions are two quotations by the president:

ONE FROM his June 1963 civil rights message calls on the legislators to "look into your hearts — not in search of charity, for the Negro neither wants nor needs condescension — but for the one plain, proud and priceless quality that unites us all as Americans; a sense of justice."

The other asserts ". . . enactment of the Civil Rights Act . . . is imperative. . . To paraphrase the words of Lincoln, 'In giving freedom to the Negro, we assure freedom to the free . . . honorable alike in what we give and what we preserve. . .'"

In the original White House draft of the report, the latter quotation was preceded by the statement, "The committee adopts the statement of the president of the United States." This declaration was deleted along with his quotation.

ALSO STRICKEN from the report were two paragraphs dealing with the Declaration of Independence and the Civil War, the latter concluding with — "After the end of the Civil War and with the adoption of the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution, the legal basis for redeeming the pledge embodied in the Declaration of Independence was established.

"Even now that pledge is far from fulfilled."

In their majority report, the bipartisan authors of the civil rights bill readily concede it is no panacea. But the report argues "There is reason to believe that national leadership provided by the enactment of federal legislation dealing with the most troublesome problems will create an atmosphere conducive to voluntary or local resolutions of forms of discrimination."

The Country Parson

"I figure most of us can make decisions that are just as important as those made by the President—they just don't affect as many people."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

Eliminate Unclassified Zoning To Avoid Future Battles

THE TERRA LINDANS got clobbered in their big battle against the apartment trust. But they should have seen the blow coming in time to duck.

There is something residents of the area can do now, however, to stave off future battles of the same kind. They can get rid of the unclassified zoning in the area.

Homeowners made a number of tactical mistakes in their presentation to the planning commission in their attempt to keep out apartments from their neighborhood. The worst might have been aping the proponents, Draper Companies, with slides, charts and statistics, under the impression that this technique had earlier impressed the commission.

THE PRESENTATION didn't impress the commission, and wasn't really supposed to. It was supposed to impress the opponents. Long experience with these items reveals that the informal, inept ploy works better with a planning commission, gaining sympathy. It also helps to note that Terra Lindans vote for city councilmen.

Draper wants apartments on the hill behind the Northgate Shopping Center for two major reasons. One is that the developers will make more money than with houses. The second is that the shopping center will have many more customers.

The second reason is the big, unspoken arguing point by the developers before the city. When the shopping center was first planned, there was fear that it might drain business from the center of town. Apartments will reduce the chance for such a drain, and will also insure more sales tax revenue for the city, an item not mentioned to the planners.

IN FUTURE, the planning commission might save itself a lot of trouble if it would take the county's master plan, which was endorsed when the land in Terra Linda was annexed, and make decisions now on the "alternatives."

In several areas, the plan offered alternative ways of developing. Residents of Terra Linda should now be forewarned that developers will, every time, insist on the alternative which nets the biggest profit.

The other problem in Terra Linda is more hidden. It has to do with the large spaces on the city map zoned "U." These areas, essentially, have no zoning, and any development is allowed with a use permit.

THE PROBLEM HERE is that subdivisions are being granted tentative map approval by the planning commission, and developers are bulldozing, cutting trees, installing streets and then asking for zoning.

Then it is too late to protest effectively. There is no advance notice to neighbors, usually, of tentative maps coming before the planning commission.

The best bet is strong pressure in the area to have the zoning settled first, and the sooner the better.

SINCE my last Reporter's Notebook, I have learned that James Stuart is unhappy about things I said about him, especially a description of his appearance before the Marin County Grand Jury.

On checking with jury foreman Edwin Wells, I was told that the item was essentially correct. Stuart did appear before the grand jury to make a statement, but did not do so and did not testify.

He was told he would have to testify under oath and through questions. He refused and spent about 10 minutes discussing procedure with Wells, Judge N. Charles Brusatori and Dist. Atty. Roger Garety. Then he left.

Higher Payment For Injuries

The State Department of Industrial Relations has reported that $28,582,357 in compensation and medical benefits was paid to injured workers out of the compensation insurance fund from January to July this year.

The agency said $24,094,204 was paid from the fund for the first six months of 1962. The department processed 116,637 claims for the six-month period this year, compared with 111,907 for the period last year.

Dirty Pool—Programs Louse Up Very Finest TV Commercials

WASHINGTON — There has been a great deal of talk lately about the number of commercials now being shown on television.

The Federal Communications chairman, William Henry, has complained, as have the viewers who for some reason think they have rights.

We happen to be one of those who think there aren't enough commercials on TV. After watching what the new television season has to offer we have decided we'd rather watch commercials.

BUT EVERY time we tune in one we discover it's interrupted by a program. Some of the commercials would make wonderful shows if there weren't so many regular programs scheduled on the air.

For example, we always get terribly frustrated when we see a young woman and a young man lolling on the grass with the breeze blowing in their hair. Suddenly the man lights up a cigarette and then places it in the girl's mouth. She puffs deeply as he looks into her eyes.

You get the feeling they understand each other, but before anything happens, we are switched back to Chet Huntley complaining about something happening in the United Nations.

A FEW weeks ago we were watching a wonderful scene of a plane following a beautiful girl in a car down the highway. The plane landed and the pilot got out and went up to the girl and asked her the name of her car.

"It's a Dodge, of course," she said.

But before she could ask the pilot what kind of plane he was flying, the commercial was interrupted by a stupid World Series game and they never did get back to the couple.

It's the same with the toothpaste commercials.

We happen to enjoy toothpaste commercials, particularly the ones that tell you how half the school used a certain kind of toothpaste and half the school didn't.

IT'S REVEALED that the half that used the special toothpaste had far less cavities than the half that didn't.

But they never show you the half that didn't get to use the special toothpaste. We'd be interested to know how they felt about being given the wrong toothpaste.

Surely the parents must have been furious to have to pay for all those cavities. Perhaps the kids with fewer cavities had their teeth knocked out by the kids who were forced to go to the dentist.

But nobody knows, because just when the commercial gets interesting somebody like Ben Casey or Perry Mason comes on the screen and spoils the show.

IT'S THE SAME with headache commercials. Some kid is screaming and the teacher shouts at him.

"Control yourself" her subconscious tells her, so she takes a couple of pills and pretty soon she's smiling again.

So far, so good. But we'd like to see how she made it up to the kid. Maybe she gave him an A. Maybe she let him go home from school. Maybe she slipped him a couple of pills.

But you never find out.

THEN there are the deodorant advertisements. A girl complains to her girl friend that no one ever takes her out on dates. The friend whispers the name of a deodorant in the girl's ear.

Sure enough, in the next scene she's dancing at a prom. Will the guy ask her to marry him? Will he ask her the name of the deodorant? Will he ask her the name of her girl friend? Nobody knows.

We guess the most maddening commercials are the ones for soap. We see a beautiful girl getting into a shower. She starts sudsing herself up real good and tells you how wonderful the soap feels on her skin.

YOU WAIT patiently for her to rinse herself off and step out of the shower. Wouldn't anybody? But just at the moment when the shower door opens, you find yourself staring at "Wagon Train" and some dirty old ranch hand eating beans with his fingers.

These are only a few examples of how television is cheating the audiences out of good commercials.

Demos Honor Cranston At Elks Club

There seems to be "confidence in efforts toward peace" among Europeans today, State Controller Alan Cranston told an audience of more than 400 persons Saturday in San Rafael.

Cranston was honored at a reception at the Elks Club, given by Democratic Party leaders in Marin. He compared his impressions of a tour of Europe this summer to his experiences there during Hitler's rise to power.

Although East Berlin is "grim, and the Berlin Wall is being built higher and thicker," Cranston said the atmosphere of most European countries was 'very different" from the tense period between world wars. Cranston is a former foreign correspondent.

He emphasized the importance of America's role in working toward peace, since it is a "nation surrounded by have-nots."

Mrs. Jules Becker of Ross and Mrs. Elaine B. Guthrie of San Rafael were in charge of the reception.

Earlier Saturday, Cranston addressed the convention of the California Credit Union League in Santa Rosa. He said the population boom in California has put "tremendous strain" on local governments, and taxpayers are reluctant to share extra costs of government.

"It seems likely that the hard-pressed property taxpayer has gone about as far as he is willing to go in paying his share not only of the cost of education, but of local government generally," Cranston said.

He said 62 per cent of the dollar value of school bond issues failed approval by voters last year, compared to 17 per cent which failed to pass in 1958.

"The ultimate solution may lie in an expanded sharing with local government of state-collected revenues," he said.

$200 Million Refund For Gas Customers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A saving to California natural gas users of about 200 million dollars was announced today by William M. Bennett, of Kentfield, president of the state Public Utilities Commission.

The saving, yet to be approved by the Federal Power Commission, is composed mostly of refunds of about 136 million dollars to the users.

This refund, Bennett said, includes 30 million dollars which the companies recently made to consumers.

The savings come from an agreement with El Paso Natural Gas Co. which supplies about 80 per cent of the out of state natural gas used in California.

The agreement includes a price reduction for delivered gas.

This reduction, retroactive to Dec. 1, 1962, will extend through 1965 and amount to a total of 66 million dollars.

Another 8 million dollars will be saved over the five year period, Bennett said, in charges for California produced gas. The commission president explained that California producers base their charges on El Paso rates. Their charges will be scaled down to conform.

Bennett figured that the average refund to California domestic customers would be about as follows:

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. customers, $15.70, including the $4.50 refunded last August as result of an earlier agreement with El Paso.

Southern California Gas Co., users, $11.70, including $3.60 refunded in August.

Southern Counties Gas Co., users, $10.10, including $2.85 refunded in August.

Woman, 61, Discovered Hanging

A 61-year-old woman was discovered hanging from a rafter in her garage yesterday in Tamalpais Valley when her husband took relatives home for a visit.

Stella Skorlich, of 362 Shoreline Highway, was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital.

Her sister, Felisa Isenhour, told Deputy Sheriff Alfred B. Curry that Mrs. Skorlich had been depressed the past two months and had been nervous since a major operation eight years ago.

Curry said she had used a quarter-inch sash cord and had apparently climbed on a kitchen stool to tie it to the rafter. A note was found that said, simply, "I love you all, Stella."

Mrs. Skorlich's husband, John, told Sheriff's deputies he left home at 10:15 a.m. to go to San Francisco to pick up the Isenhours, and returned at 11:45 a.m. He said he was surprised to find the garage door closed, and discovered his wife when he opened the door.

They had lived in Marin County only six months. Mrs. Skorlich had spent the rest of her life in San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley.

Norman Thomas Urges Freedom From Threat

Action is needed in every community to "free America from its reliance on threats of war as a way to maintain democratic freedom," socialist Norman Thomas told an audience in Ross Friday night.

The 78-year-old former Socialist Party presidential candidate was honored at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Flax, 10 Lagunitas Road. The reception was attended by 88 persons.

Thomas appeared as national co-chairman of Turn Toward Peace, a group dedicated toward arousing local discussion of public affairs.

Rather than thinking in terms of "war or surrender," the nation should "maintain freedom without increasing tensions," Thomas said.

Several community leaders were present at the reception for Thomas, including Elaine B. Guthrie of Ross, state inheritance tax appraiser, and Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools.

Turn Toward Peace is supported by the United Automobile Workers (AFL-CIO), American Friends Service Committee, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and the Peace Center of Marin.

High Court Defers Ruling On Sit-Ins

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today deferred for at least 60 days a ruling on the five sit-in cases now pending before it.

And there was a possible indication that when it does rule it will go to the heart of the constitutional question raised in connection with the cases.

This is: Can a private business man who wishes to exclude persons of one race from his business invoke state trespass laws to enforce his policy?

What the Supreme Court did today was to request in an order that the Justice Department submit its views on the constitutional issue. The high court divided 5-4 in making the request.

The majority was made up of Chief Justice Warren and Justices Douglas, Brennan, Stewart and Goldberg. The dissenters were Justices Black, Clark, Harlan and White.

When the cases were argued before the Supreme Court last month, Solicitor General Archibald Cox, speaking for the Justice Department, contended there was no need for the high court to consider the constitutional issue in these cases.

Cox said the cases could be decided on the narrower ground of whether the sit-in demonstrators had been given proper notice that their activities were alleged to be illegal.

Among other actions today the high court:

Refused to review and thus let stand a lower court ruling that residents on a federal reservation at Perry Point, Md., may not register as voters in Maryland elections.

Agreed to review a case involving seizure and destruction of 1,715 books in Kansas as obscene. The Kansas Supreme Court approved the destruction of the books published as "This is an Original Nightstand Book."

Clausen Peace Corp Vote Tied To Aid Flop

Rep. Donald H. Clausen (R-Crescent City) explained today that he voted in favor of extending the Peace Corps program because of the failure of other types of foreign aid programs.

The house approved the extension in a voice vote last Wednesday. It provides for 11,300 corpsmen and authorizes the expenditure of 102 million dollars to operate it next year.

In his remarks to the House on passage of the bill, Clausen said the bill should be passed for two reasons:

"First, the American people have recognized the failure of other types of foreign aid programs which have created a damaging image of America and are looking for a program that will have a longer range, more productive effect.

"Second, our people are beginning to realize the urgency of establishing a program that will initiate an ideological offensive of our own . . . an offensive designed to set the stage for winning the cold war against the USSR and other advocates of the Communist doctrine."

Supervisors To Take Up Photo Idea

The probation officers' request to be allowed to photograph chronic runaways from Marin Juvenile Hall will come up for further discussion before the Marin County Board of Supervisors tomorrow.

The supervisors meet from 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Civic Center.

Supervisors are not opposed to photographing runaway juveniles for use in searches, but are disturbed by one thing — the possibility that the "photograph may come back to haunt the boy later," as Board Chairman William D. Fusselman put it.

The agenda appears to be a light one, both in the morning and in the afternoon.

A progress report on "County Employment Practices" is also on tap. This is the county's pilot program to help train and hire minorities.

The afternoon agenda includes a discussion of a proposed engineering study of Richardson Bay to determine where the bulkhead line should go.

Hearings will be held on the rezoning of Los Ranchitos area to minimum one-acre sites, and the zoning plan for San Geronimo Valley. The county planning commissioners approved a new zoning map for San Geronimo, outlining the commercial areas and putting the rest in larger residential lots of 10,000 square feet to one-acre sites.

Committee Moves Closer To Providing Flood Money

The House Appropriations Committee has recommended an increase of $200,000 to speed work on Dry Creek Dam in Sonoma County, Rep. Don H. Clausen (R-Crescent City) announced today.

Clausen said the committee also reached an agreement aimed at inserting $20,000 into the budget to begin flood control planning on Corte Madera Creek in Marin County.

The $200,000 issue had cleared its first major hurdle Friday when the House appropriations subcommittee on public works approved its navigation, flood control and water conservation appropriation bill for the 1964 fiscal year. The bill still must clear the House and Senate, however.

In addition, the committee recommended approval of $355,00 for surveys and flood control work on the Russian River, $15,000 for a flood control study on Richardson Bay streams in Marin County, $24,500 for the harbor project at Jenner, and $225,000 for the Petaluma River ship channel, Clausen said.

Referring to the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, the congressman said committee policy prohibits inclusion of any project appropriations not budgeted by the president, but that Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, Senate appropriations committeeman, would attempt to insert it during Senate consideration of the bill.

One-third of Alaska's 246,000 residents are members of the armed forces or their dependents.

Chest X-Ray Service Will Be Shut Down

The health department offers its tuberculin skin test service year 'round. Persons may also be tested by their own physicians, Dr. Albrecht said.

Irate 49er Coach Blasts Giants For Piling It On

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coach Jack Christiansen of the San Francisco 49ers believes the New York Giants "piled on the score" a little yesterday in their battle to take over undisputed first place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

Coach Al Sherman's Giants, led by former 49er Y. A. Tittle, walloped the San Francisco team, 48-14 — and found out why it isn't wise to aim kickoffs in Abe Woodson's direction.

Christiansen was asked immediately after the game if he thought the Giants purposely flexed their scoring muscles against the Western Division door mats.

"It kinda looks that way," the 49er coach said. "I hope he (Sherman) loses all the rest of his games."

However, Christiansen added that he thought the Giants could beat the Chicago Bears in a title game — if they met. New York and Chicago presently lead their respective divisions by one game.

Tittle got off to a slow start against his old teammates, completing only one of seven passes in the first quarter. However, the 37-year-old quarterback finished the day by hitting 16 of 31 for 284 yards and four touchdowns.

The Giant quarterback now has thrown a lifetime total of 193 touchdown passes, putting him only three short of the NFL record set by Bobby Layne.

If Sherman was pouring it on, and Tittle was aching to top Layne's mark, it wasn't apparent in the final period. Rookie Glynn Griffing came in for Tittle and hit Frank Gifford with a 30-yard pass for the final score of the game.

The early going had all the makings of a good game. The Giants got 10 points on a field goal and a 50-yard run down the middle by Phil King, through a hole so big it looked like he was the only player on the field.

Then 49er quarterback Lamar McHan fired a bomb to Bernie Casey for a 68-yard scoring play to make it 10-7 Giants.

But then Tittle hit on scoring passes of 10 yards to Frank Gifford, 45 yards to Joe Morrison, 70 yards to Del Shofner and 10 yards to Morrison. Don Chandler sandwiched another field goal in among the Tittle barrage.

The Giants played it very cool against Woodson, the one bright spot in San Francisco's dreary season. During the early part of the game, they used "Squibbler," on-side type kickoffs to keep the ball away from the speedy Woodson.

However, holding a very healthy lead in the third period, the Giants decided to test him. Abe took the kickoff on the one yard line and ran it right down their throats for a 99-yard touchdown.

LYNCH INJURED—New York's Erich Barnes (49) and Dick Lynch (22) leap to break up a pass to 49ers' Bernie Casey (30) on final play in the third quarter of yesterday's battle in New York. Lynch, who bounds away off balance at right, suffered a concussion and was hospitalized for observation. The Giants won 48-14 and took over first place in the eastern division of the NFL. Bears Clobber Packers On Old Fashioned Techniques

Chicago Takes NFL Lead With Convincing Victory

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

They called George Halas old-fashioned; there were many who said the parade had passed him by and that he hadn't kept pace with the swiftly advancing times in pro football; they said he couldn't win again.

Yet here is 68-year-old "Papa Bear" on the verge of becoming the most successful coach in any era of pro football.

He coached winners during the National Football League's "Gaslight Era" of Ernie Nevers and Jim Thorpe; he had winners during the transitional T-formation days of Sid Luckman and Sammy Baugh; and new he's headed for a winner in the modern highly specialized era of Jimmy Brown, Y. A. Tittle and Johnny Unitas.

Papa's Bears, using his "old-fashioned" techniques of ball-control and defense, destroyed the proud Green Bay Packers, 26-7 yesterday and virtually assured the NFL of a new champion. Four weeks still remain in the season but the Bears are in command with a 9-1 record and a one-game lead over the Packers in the Western Division.

The New York Giants also assumed the undisputed lead in the Eastern Division of the league when they clobbered the San Francisco 49ers, 48-14, while the St. Louis Cardinals upset the Cleveland Browns, 20-14. The Giants, with an 8-2 record, now hold a one-game lead over deadlocked Cleveland and St. Louis.

OTHER GAMES

In yesterday's other games, the Pittsburgh Steelers remained in the running with a 34-28 win over the Washington Redskins; the Los Angeles Rams upset the Detroit Lions, 28-21; the Baltimore Colts edged the Minnesota Vikings, 37-34, and the Dallas Cowboys beat the Philadelphia Eagles, 27-20.

The Bears won the NFL's biggest battle of 1963 by beating the Packers at their own game —a crushing ground attack and an unyielding defense. Those were the weapons the Packers had used to win three straight Western titles and the last two NFL playoff games.

Yesterday the Bears were supreme right from the opening minutes and by a more convincing margin than their 10-3 win over the Packers on the opening Sunday of the season. A sellout crowd of 49,166 watched the game at Chicago.

Quarterback Billy Wade completed only 6 of 14 passes, but the Chicago ground forces of Willie Galimore, Joe Marconi and Rick Casares ground out 248 rushing yards. Galimore's 79 yards were eight more than the entire Green Bay haul of 71.

Roger Leclerc kicked four field goals of 29, 46, 19 and 35 yards; Galimore ran 27 yards for one touchdown and Wade carried 5 yards for another; and the Chicago Defense intercepted five passes and recovered two Green Bay fumbles.

While injured Bart Starr sat on the sidelines, John Roach handled the Green Bay quarterback job for the first three quarters and Zeke Bratowski for the final period. The Packers' lone score came on an 11-yard run by Tom Moore late in the game.

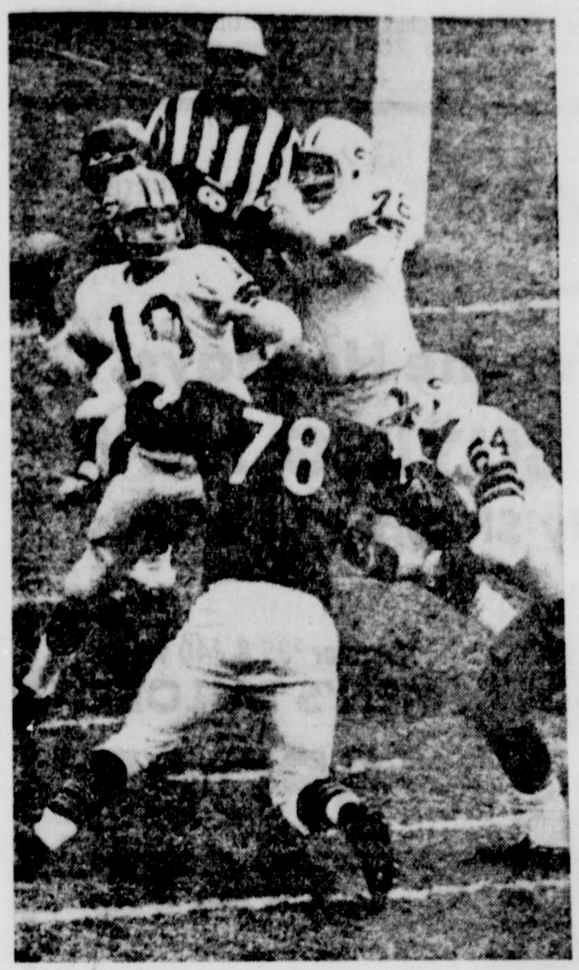
Charley Johnson threw two scoring passes and gained 274 air yards for the Cards in the win that knocked Cleveland out of a tie for first place. Johnson passed 41 yards to Sonny Randle and 19 yards to Bill Triplett for the score that eventually proved the game-winner.

Cleveland's Jimmy Brown had the consolation of adding an NFL record. He raced 59 yards for the Browns' first score in a 154-yard rushing haul that made hif pro football's leading all-time ground-gainer by all methods (runs, pass-catches and kick returns). His 11,353-yard total topped Ollie Matson's 11,317.

Gary Ballman ran back a kickoff 92 yards with slightly more than two minutes to play and gave Pittsburgh its win at Washington. The Redskins, who suffered their seventh straight defeat, had tied the score on Norm Snead's 21-yard pass to Pat Richter with 2:38 left to play. Ballman earlier had caught a 67-yard scoring pass from Ed Brown.

Roman Gabriel completed three scoring passes to Carroll Dale (66, 42 and 51 yards) in the Rams' upset at Detroit. The last two TDs came in the final period and enabled the Rams to overcome a 21-14 Detroit lead that was built up on Earl Morrall's three scoring passes.

Johnny Unitas hit Jimmy Orr with TD tosses of 60 and 13 yards during the final period to beat Minnesota. The winning TD came with five seconds left to play. In all, Unitas threw four scoring passes.



CROWDED PLACE—Quarterback John Roach (10) of the Green Bay Packers seeks a receiver as Chicago Bears Stan Jones (78) and Doug Atkins (81) gang up on him in first quarter yesterday. Blocking for Roach are guard Jerry Kramer (64) and tackle Norm Masters (78). The pass was incomplete. The Bears upset the Packers 26-7 to take the NFL Western Division lead. (AP Wirephoto)

Oh, What A Weekend! San Rafael Started Parade Of Big Upsets

RANDOL

Standing at the intersection of the Street of Sorrows and the Boulevard of Broken Dreams this last weekend, I watched a veritable parade of shattered chassis, battered bodies and mangled machines. Totalled, as the saying goes.

Makes no difference whether you are a follower of high school, college or pro football. Or even a sports columnist. It was a soul-shaker for sure.

The flags were flying when the San Rafael Bulldogs trounced undefeated Drake High, and Santa Rosa punctured the College of Marin balloon. That should have been warning enough, but it was only the beginning.

Came Saturday and the local scene was upset once more as the Redwood Giants blew a "cinch" tie for the championship when Novato High finally played up to its ability.

STANFORD BECAME the doormat of the Big Six with a shameful loss to Washington State. And, of all things, the Rose Bowl bound Washington Huskies were upset by the lowly UCLA Bruins. Maybe no team wants to play the Big 10 this year.

With all this going on it should have been no shock that even Slippery Rock lost to West Chester. But they did, and it was.

Sunday brought pro football, and now things could settle down to conformity. Conformity? The Chicago Bears paste the champion Green Bay Packers for the second time. And this is the team beaten by the San Francisco 49ers!

THE ST. LOUIS Cardinals move in on the Cleveland Browns with another shocker. A victory for the Los Angeles Rams is enough to bring tears to the eyes.

Has the whole world gone topsy-turvy? Not on your life! There is still one old reliable around to set things back in proportion and let you know all's well with the world. The 49ers, the good old 49ers, straightened it all out with a 48 to 14 loss to Y. A. Tittle and his New York Giants.

Surprisingly, it was a fun game to watch after definite superiority had been established by the Giants. Everyone played it a little loose, and the scoring plays were spectacular. No game is a total loss when you can watch Abe Woodson return a kickoff the length of the field.

IN PASSING, the TV coverage was the best of the year with disclosing close-ups of the huddles and occasional sound coverage by a parabolic microphone that brought the field noises right into your armchair. Too bad the producers don't dare risk the swearing that would inevitably end the show.

And speaking of shambles, this fearless football forecasting "expert" missed on six out of eleven picks. That's hard to beat, but it WAS beaten by that other expert on the I-J staff, Mr. Consensus, who missed seven. What a bum!

SALMON RUN IS GREAT AS SEASON ENDS

It was a field day for salmon Saturday at Duxbury, fisherman Sam Knoles reported today.

Four of five anglers aboard Sil Ruffino's boat, "Pogi," got their limits, with Sil's wife, Nina, catching the largest lunker, a 36-pounder. Antone Shirada also pulled out a Schenley Sportsmen's Club winnef, a 35-pounder, reported Knoles.

Other anglers aboard were Emil Bianco, Knoles and Capt. Ruffino. The other fish caught by the group ranged from 15 to 20 pounds.

With the salmon season closing yesterday, the late run finally came to the forefront, with many lunkers pulled out of the waters near Duxbury.

'Big Game' Outlook

STANFORD (AP) — California and Stanford are the only Big Six teams officially out of the Rose Bowl race yet their meeting Saturday could attract 100,000 onlookers.

Right now there are several thousand seats left in Stanford Stadium for the annual "Big Game" but no one would be surprised if it sold out.

That despite the fact California has a 4-4-1 record and Stanford only 2-7.

The explanation lies in the historic rivalry and the promise of the closest of competition where nothing that has happened previously can give an accurate indication to the outcome.

California should be favored and undoubtedly will be. With the great passing of Craig Morton, the Bears pasted UCLA 25-0 after the Bruins had edged Stanford 10-9.

Plus this, the Indians may operate without Steve Thurlow, their running and passing halfback. Even if he can play, the 200-pounder won't be at full efficiency.

He suffered a severe leg bruise Saturday in the first quarter as Washington State sprung quarterback Dale Ford as a surprise and came off with a 32-15 victory.

"This has to be the low point in Stanford football," declared Coach John Ralston and then immediately began preparations for his first Big Game on the Stanford side of the fence.

Ralston, who succeeded Jack Curtice this season, did his playing at Cal.

Stanford has won the last two meetings yet must pull a major surprise this time if it's to do it for the new coach.

CAL RALLIES

California rallied last Saturday from a 0-15 deficit to beat Utah 35-22, mainly on the running of Tom Relles and Tom Blanchfield as a wet field hindered the aerial game.

By halftime it stood 15-14 and then came one of the strange plays in football. Blanchfield stood ready for a field goal try. But the snap from center missed the holder and Tom grabbed it and ran for a touchdown on a play covering 14 yards. That sent the Bears into the lead to stay.

Things were far different at Stanford. The Indians fumbled the first three times they had the ball, giving up a field goal and a touchdown. They fell back 18-0 at halftime including a safety on an intercepted pass and never could make up the deficit although gaining one point in the second half with 15 to 14 for Washington State.

Coach Jim Sutherland of WSU pulled his big surprise with Dale Ford at quarterback after the big junior from Olympia had been playing defensive halfback all season. Since Ford can run and regular quarterback Dave Mathiesson is primarily a passer, the Stanford defenses were confused.

Ford scored on runs of one and three yards and kept the Cougar attack in high gear.

Stanford can take only this consolation in a poor performance. Two years ago they lost to Washington State 30-0 and rebounded to whip California 20-7.

Cadets End Season With 6-0 Win Over Arch Rivals

San Rafael Military Academy's football team ended its season on a happy note Saturday when the Cadets blanked Menlo 6-0 in the "Little Big Game" on the Menlo High School field.

A double reverse in the second quarter with Tony Fahden packing the ball for a 65-yard touchdown gallop provided the only TD of the game, but it was enough.

Head coach Larry Fulton praised his entire defensive team for the victory. The Cadets twice stopped Menlo from scoring when the home town boys had reached within the five-yard stripe on the Cadets' side of the field.

It was San Rafael's second shutout in a row over the Menlo delegation, the Cadets winning last year's match 25-0. Overall, the SRMA gridders have won 10 games to 25 for Menlo. There was one tie in the series which dates back to 1926.

With the victory, the Cadets kept possession of the "victory bell," an old ship's bell emblematic of the winner of the "Little Big Game." SRMA ended the Bay Counties League season with a 3-2-1 record, good for third place.

Tam Passes Whip Marin

By MAURICE WEINGER

Robin Prosch and Cedric Collett teamed up on three long touchdown passes to lead the Tamalpais Indians to a 20-12 victory over Marin Catholic last Saturday at Kentfield.

The Indian victory, their second straight in the Marin County Athletic League, tied them with Novato for fourth place, both ending the season with 2-4 marks. Marin Catholic's loss was its sixth straight in league play this season.

Collett, the right end, had his finest night by out-racing and out-maneuvering the Wildcat defensive secondary. Tamalpais was always ahead even though Marin Catholic dominated the statistical column by having the ball on 71 plays to the Indians' 45.

Tam wasted little time getting on the scoreboard in the second quarter when Prosch sent Collett down the right side from the Indian 44-yard line. The 6-1 receiver outraced Wildcats Bob Carney and Jim Tupper for a quick six points and Alex Robertson added the seventh on a run over right guard.

Late in the third quarter Tamalpais increased its lead to 13-6. Starting on their own 20, the Indians kept on the ground with halfback Ellis Williams' fine, hard running, but a key carry by Robertson over right guard for 28 yards moved the ball down to the M. C. 18.

FAVORITE TARGET

Prosch found his favorite target with a high pass in the end zone which Collett just reached up and grabbed over the head of the defending Tupper.

The final Indian score was a beautiful drive that began on Tam's two. The Wildcats had previously been stopped on a drive of their own and the Indians began a ground attack with Williams and Robertson doing most of the carrying.

With the ball resting on Tam's own 22 and the defensive secondary being sucked in because of the previous four running plays, Collett again was called on to deliver the mail.

Again he didn't fail. Prosch sent him down and in, and catching the ball on the 40, the nifty end slipped through the outstretched arms of Bob Lombardi on the 45, and went the distance free and clear.

The 20th point was nearly a duplication of the previous pass, except the receiver was Bob Washington on a tackle eligible play.

Marin's closest gap came after Tam's first score. Taking the ensuing kick-off, the Wildcats kept strictly on the ground and pounded out 58 yards on 13 plays. Leading the ground attack were Lu Ercolini and Rich Bacich. Both runners made their yardage through the guard spots or off tackle, and it was Bacich's 18-yard trap play on a fourth down situation from the 30 that set up the first six points.

Ercolini then slanted off left guard and raced past the Tam defense for the 12-yard score.

With less than two minutes of playing time remaining in the last quarter, the Wildcats' second score developed. Gene Ceccotti recovered Prosch's fumble on the Indian 41 and quarterback Bob Shine, who had failed to complete a pass on nine straight previous attempts, went to the air.

Three times he rolled to his left and three times he found his receivers. First pass went to Bacich for a first down on the 16; the second went to John Klapperch on a side line shot to the two, and the scoring shot was fired over left tackle to Gary Wallaert for the 12th point.

The junior varsity teams played each other to a scoreless duel in the preliminary contest.

Light Winds Mar Regatta On The Bay

By ALFRED MATSON

Yesterday's regatta of the Metropolitan Yacht Club, while not a howling success, did produce a fair ratio of finishers and gave the participants in some of the classes a good measure of competitive sailing.

There were 55 starters, 33 class boats and 22 in the handicap category. At the onset the wind was far from being robust and the class boat sailors wisely elected to race the short, 4.6-mile course.

But the larger boats of the handicap division wanted more racing room and their skippers voted for the longer, 7.9-mile raceway. By mid-afternoon the breeze faded to a catspaw but, by that time, all class boats had finished and, sad to state, only three of the big boats made it home. And that was just minutes before the sunset deadline.

The results: Knarr, Squirrely II, Ram, Aspirant; Rawson 30, Windsong, Hardy Yare Har, Andi; Triton, Harlot, Bye Bye II, Misty; Folkboat, Fine Thing, Annie, Fale II; Handicap Division, Trident, Lancer, Hoyden.

HUSKIES UPSET

Panic In Big Six

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

What had been an orderly Big Six race degenerated into panic today with the Washington Huskies apparently far from cinches to reach the Rose Bowl.

The damage was done last Saturday by the pea-green UCLA Bruins, who rocked the Huskies, 14-0, in one of the big upsets of the season and made a mess out of the Big Six standings.

It's up to the league chiefs to decide next Saturday night which team gets the honor of going to Pasadena. And there could be problems.

Should aroused Washington State — which has a 1-0 conference mark but only is 3-5 for the season — hand the Huskies another upset, the Trojans of Southern California conceivably could wind up back in the Rose Bowl.

Although trounced, 22-7, by Washington this season, USC now trails the Huskies by a half-game in the Big Six. Another Washington loss and a Southern California win over UCLA would put USC on top in the final standings.

What happened on the same gridiron the next day was most unexpected. UCLA, a 13-point underdog, contained the terrific line smashes of fullback Junior Coffey and won the game on a pair of touchdown passes to sophomore Byron Nelson. Not to be confused with the mighty golfer, Nelson tallied on tosses of eight and four yards from Larry Zeno and Steve Sindell.

"Everything fell into place," Coach Bill Barnes of the Uclans said after getting down from the team's shoulders. It was only the Bruins' second win in nine contests.

In other games, Washington State demolished two-touchdown favorite Stanford, 32-15, California rallied for a 35-22 win over Utah, Oregon beat Indiana in a thriller, 28-22. The University of the Pacific won its first game of the season by downing Brigham Young, 14-0, and San Jose State outscrambled Fresno State, 56-27.

Quick Touch has had six foals and all have been winners. One of them is Traffic, winner of the famed Hopeful at Saratoga.

Seals Cling To League Lead

Thanks to a clutch goal by good old Charlie Burns and then a last minute solo smash by Duke Edmundson, the San Francisco Seals held onto first place today in the Western Hockey League.

But they won't get a chance to protect it until Wednesday night when they resume play at Los Angeles. And by then, Seattle or the Blades could have overhauled them in the tight race.

San Francisco nicked Seattle 4-3, Saturday night before a crowd of 8,841 at the Cow Palace in the final three and a half minutes of play.

Burns, who had missed two games because of an injured knee, tied the score 3-3 at 16:28 of the third period with a shot up the middle.

Then with 46 seconds left in the frame, Edmundson roared in alone from the blue line and twice faked goalie Claude Dufour before slamming the puck past him.

Bill MacFarland and Gerry Leonard gave the Totes a 2-0 lead in the first period when Mo Mantha countered for San Francisco.

A second period goal by Del Topoll widened the margin to 3-1, but then Al Nicholson kept the Seals in the game with a tally at 16:03 of the same period.

Novato Knocks Redwood Out Of Title

13-7 Upset By Hornets In League Grid Finale

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The 1963 edition of the Marin Athletic League football campaign today is history and the Novato High School ended it by taking a top seat in the spoiler's role.

Novato kept Redwood High from getting a piece of the title last Saturday on the College of Marin football field when the Hornets upset the Giants 13-7 before about 1,200 fans. A victory for Redwood would have given it a tie with San Rafael and Drake for the championship. But Novato would have nothing to do with those kind of things.

Novato used the throwing arm of quarterback Roy Otis and the power of fullback John Miller to spearhead the offensive attack. Otis, the league's top passer, threw for 98 yards to keep the offense rolling and Miller scored both touchdowns on power plays, both TDs being scored from only inches out.

The stubborn Hornet defense allowed Redwood only 74 yards on the ground and held fullback Paul Ackerman, the league's top rusher, to only 52 yards. Before the battle, Ackerman had been averaging more than 100 yards per game.

REDWOOD FUMBLE

After the two teams battled through a scoreless first quarter, Novato registered the first tally on the scoreboard in the second period, with only 25 seconds left in the half. A Redwood fumble with only a minute left in the period set up the score for Novato.

Novato's Nick Willard got off a 35-yard punt which rolled dead on the Redwood seven-yard line, but an offsides penalty against the Hornets moved the ball back five yards to their 47 from where they had to punt again. This time the ball was caught by Redwood's Guy Modica on the Giants' 19-yard line. He tried to give the ball to Dave Cox, the other Redwood deep man, but the ball squirted loose from Modica, Novato's Mike Halkovich falling on the ball on the 21.

HORNETS SCORE

On the first play from the 21, Otis tried a keeper on the right side but was held to no gain. So he decided to pass, and hit Miller with a 19-yarder for a first-and-goal on the Redwood two. Miller got the call over left guard and pushed his way forward to about the four-inch line. On the next play, Miller took the ball again on a slant over his own left guard and bulled into the end zone for the touchdown.

Ken Marder added the extra point with a kick, putting the Hornets in front 7-0 before intermission.

Cox, the speedster for the Giants, put Redwood back in the game with 6:10 gone in the third quarter. He did it with a 60-yard punt return, electrifying the Redwood supporters with a tight-rope act along the sidelines before breaking in thec lear and sprinting to the end zone. Ackerman notched up the equalizer with a PAT run over left end.

Novato's winning touchdown in the fourth quarter was set up by the arm of Otis. In a drive which covered 61 yards in 10 plays, Otis tossed a 34-yard pass to wingback George Scherba and then a 10-yarder to end Rusty Druba, the latter giving the Hornets a first and goal on the nine and one-half yard line.

WINNING TALLY

On the next play halfback Rick Thomas picked up four yards over left guard. Then Miller gained another yard to the five. It was Thomas' turn again and he moved the ball to the one-foot line where it was fourth-and-goal. The way the three plays went, it was anybody's guess who would carry on the fourth down play. With this in mind, Otis faked a handoff to Thomas and gave it to the second man, Miller, who crashed over left guard for the score. It was a good call, and a big score.

A pass attempt by Marder on a fake kick play was no good, but the six points were enough. With only 3:35 left, things looked dark for the defending league champion Giants.

BIG INTERCEPTION

But it got darker a couple of minutes later. Redwood quarterback Ed Hutchison was filling the air with passes, two of them complete and one incomplete, when he tried the fourth. That one was plucked out of the air by Novato defensive back Chuck Overmyer on the Hornet 46-yard line and returned upfield to the Redwood 46. That key interception came with less than one minute remaining in the game and killed what little hope Redwood had of getting part of the MAL title.

It was a tough game to lose, and a tough game to win, both teams playing rock-and-sock football throughout the contest.

The Giants ended their season with a 4-2 league slate and Novato completed its schedule with a 2-4 mark.

Warriors Find New Offensive Punch

The San Francisco Warriors finally found an offensive punch to go with their stubborn defense.

The Warriors exploded last night at the Cow Palace with their highest point output of the season in coasting to a 120-96 victory over the Detroit Pistons before 1,541 fans.

Latest National Basketball Assn. statistics show San Francisco as the best defensive team in the league and the only team to hold its opponents to an average of less than 100 points a game.

But the Warriors have been able to manage only a 7-7 record this season because of their inability to put together a sustained offense.

That all changed last night as seven San Francisco Warriors hit double figures. Wilt Chamberlain led all players with 37 points, followed by Tom Meschery with 16, Ken Sears with 13, Guy Rodgers with 12, Gary Hill with 11 and Wayne Hightower and Al Attles with 10 each.

Rookie guard Eddie Miles provided one of the few bright spots for Detroit with 25 points.

Last night's victory was especially satisfying since it followed two consecutive games in which San Francisco practically gave away victory.

Friday night the Warriors blew a 19-point third-quarter lead and ended up on the wrong side of a 101-98 score. Thursday night the Warriors squandered a 15-point lead and eventually lost to St. Louis by 12 points.

Real Marin Soccer Men Lose 1st Game

The Real Marin soccer team lost its first game of the San Francisco Soccer Football League season yesterday when it fell in a close battle with the Teutonia team, 2-1, in San Francisco.

Neven Zuvich scored the lone goal for the Marin team in a battle that could have gone either way.

NO-PROFIT JOE—TO THE POORHOUSE HE DID GO

That newsboy outsmarted me. Made me pay 9c for a left-over paper, and made sense doing it, too. Added up his cost, overhead, time, and a few fringe benefits, and before he was through, had me almost convinced I ought to pay him full price. Real logical, that kid was. Gonna keep an eye on him. He'd make good material for us in a few years. Need some good convincers to talk plain economics to some of our customers. Need 'em badly.

I know a real live Sad Sack—a nice guy, really—who still can't fathom why he went broke in the car business. He'd sold so many cars. How could it be that he ran out of money and couldn't pay for his cars, even after he had sold them? This is no fantasy. He's real, and really miserable. I once worked for the man. We had trouble communicating. I never had much luck talking to a dream. His ailment was not uncommon. He was too great a believer. He believed the next dealer would grab that "way-out" deal if he didn't.

Ask any accountant or business analyst. A net worth will burst much like an over-inflated balloon, when it is built up with unsecured accounts receivable, unrealistically inflated valuations of used cars, and over financed conditional sales contracts. Particularly, when gross profits have been calculated too close to costs with no allowance for selling expenses and pro-rata distribution of overhead expenses. "I sold every new car for more than the factory charged me. Where did I go wrong?" Exit, head bowed, and shaking. Hollow laughter in background.

Here, friend, give me a hand, so's I can get down from this here soapbox. Got some business to 'tend to. Been caching a few bob the Mrs. doesn't know about, and I aims to have me a personal shopping spree. If I plays my cards right, I can stretch my little nestegg into quite a pile of loot. First off, I'll get me a new raincoat. Best time to shop the best deal. Hasn't rained for six months.

"You say this here raincoat is $25.95, sir? Notice this soiled mark, here? Bet it won't even come off. And, now that Sam Spade isn't on TV anymore, this style is passe', isn't it? Tell you what. I'll take it off your hands for $15.00. You say your cost is $17.00? Well, I'll make it $16.00 then. It should be worth it to you to get rid of it and lose only a dollar. You can make it up on the next customer, anyway. Take it or leave it. I can get the same raincoat at Spelvin's for $14.00, but I'd rather buy here, 'cause I like to keep my business close to home." Well, that wasn't too hard. Now, for that new car.

"What do you mean, this '32 Essex is kinda old? Still runs like a clock. Just drove it mostly on weekends. Highway driving, only. Take the bus to work, you know. Motor completely overhauled just last week, $267.00. New rubber, 2,000 miles on 'em, only. Hate to part with it, but might consider a new compact, there, with nothin' on it, mind you, just sales tax and license, and standard equipment, if I got $1,000 for my jewel, here, in trade. Been offered more, but I'm tired of shopping, and like to deal close to home, all things considering.

$750.00 under your cost? Ridiculous. Can't fool me. You guys work on a margin of at least 75%, not counting all them kick-backs. Just read 'bout them billions, billions, mindja, one car manufacturer made in nine months. No need to cry and carry on so, son. You say you got none of that? You say you got to make something to meet the mortgage payments to the bank on this fine new building? And, your family expects you to bring home some money, too? Well, I'm not hard to get along with. I'll take $800.00 for it."

Not a bad day's work. Finally got $400.00 for that bucket of bolts I was planning on junking. Guess I'll see John the barber. Wednesday's his slow day, and maybe I can talk him into a haircut for $1.50.

Doug Cowan and I have said this many times before, and we say it again. We're ready to barter and "horse-trade" at Ames Ford—on a sound basis. We can't be too wrong. We've outtraded just about every other dealer—just about every time, and we still manage to make a little money.

$10,400 FOR YOUTH

Misprinted U.N. Stamps To Finance An Education

NEW YORK (AP) — A college student has assured the financing of his education by selling 50 misprinted United Nations postage stamps for $10,400.

The unidentified Bronx youth purchased 50 of the misprints for $2 on the first day of their issue, Feb. 28, 1962. Several weeks ago, he sold them to wholesale stamp dealer Julius Stolow of J. and H. Stolow, Inc. for $208 each.

Stolow said yesterday the young man "knew right away what he had" when he returned home from the U. N. with the stamps.

The misprinted stamps commemorate the U. N.'s housing and community facilities. But they are minus the black-imprinted words "Housing and Community facilities," which should be cornered on the left side, then continued halfway across the top.

Also missing from the seven-color misprints are several areas of black shading on houses that make up most of the stamp's design.

H. Alexander Fraenkel, who publishes a journal for stamp dealers and collectors, said:

"The misprint is the greatest error since the Dag Hammarskjold stamp case.

VALUABLE MISPRINT—At top is way new U.N. stamp is supposed t olook. At bottom words "housing and community facilities" are missing. (AP Wirephoto)

"It's even greater for stamp collectors and dealers, because this error cannot be corrected by the U. S. Post Office Department . . .

"The stamps were printed by Harrison and Sons of London, and screened by its personnel in accordance with the usual rigid, careful British standards."

Stolow said he sold most of the stamps to dealers for $275 each, suggesting that dealers resell them to collectors for $300 apiece. At that retail price the misprinted stamps will be sold for about $20,000.

A year ago the U. S. Post Office Department blasted the dreams of a few American collectors of making small fortunes by selling misprinted U. S. stamps bearing the likeness of Hammarskjold, the late U. N. secretary-general.

The department purposely misprinted thousands more of the four-cent stamps and devaluated the original misprints.

Portuguese Would Cork State's Port

OPORTO, Portugal (AP)—California wine bottlers are making unauthorized use of the "Port Wine" tag a Portuguese vintner's association contends.

In a current publication, the Port Wine Institute complains that the word "port" in America is considered as "something having no owner, part of the public domain."

The institute, which checks that all Portuguese port wine conforms to its standards, is also battling to keep foreign imitations from capitalizing on Northern Portugal's famous drink.

The institute says California bottlers print the name "port" in oversize letters, while the label sports only a minute "California" designation. This, it says, "shows clearly the intent to hide the lowly modesty of the California wines with the high prestige" the name port implies.

To carry the label port, Portuguese wines must be obtained from grapes grown in a well-defined area of Northern Portugal and pass the institute's scrutiny.

Forbes Gold Medal Is Due Marinite

William Rochester of 302 East Strawberry Drive, Strawberry Point, an accountant with Price Waterhouse and Co. in San Francisco, will be awarded the Forbes Gold Medal at a luncheon meeting of the San Francisco Chapter of the California Society of Certified Public Accountants Wednesday in San Francisco.

The medal is being awarded to Rochester because he had the highest grade in the state in the May, 1962, examinations for certified public accountants.

UNPLEASANT, SAYS YANK OF RUSS JAIL

Mother Says Son Was Kept 16 Days In Small Lighted Cell In Moscow

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — "I'm working on my book and I hope I'll have a period of quiet after this," says Frederick C. Barghoorn, home from the Soviet Union where he was jailed as a spy.

Arrested Oct. 31 on an espionage charge, the 42-year-old Yale professor was imprisoned in Moscow until Saturday.

Then the Soviet Union, citing the personal concern expressed by President John K. Kennedy, announced it was expelling Barghoorn. He was hustled aboard an airliner and flown to London. Yesterday a second flight carried him to New York and a chartered plane brought him to New Haven.

He was taken to the apartment of Mrs. Elizabeth Barghoorn, his 80-year-old mother. Barghoorn, a bachelor, lives next door.

At a news conference last night, Barghoorn read a statement about "my unpleasant experience."

He allowed only a few minutes of questions. He refused to answer, or replied cautiously, to questions about details of his arrest, confinement and release. He said he would withhold a number of details "until I have had an opportunity to fully acquaint myself with the views and information of the appropriate officials in Washington."

The Russians, Barghoorn said, accused him of gathering intelligence during his employment in the U. S. Embassy in Moscow in the 1940s and on six trips he has made to the Soviet Union since 1947. Soviet studies are Barghoorn's specialty as a professor of political science. He has written several books on the Soviet Union and was gathering material for another when he was arrested.

The climate of suspicion in Russia is such, he said, that "one can be accused of conducting intelligence activity merely by walking down the street— especially if one has hostile intentions against the Soviet state; hostile, that is, in the opinion of the appropriate Soviet authorities."

He denied that the Russians had any basis for accusing him of spying.

They knew he was going to try and determine how public opinion is formed in the Soviet Union, Barghoorn said, and could have refused him a visa.

"There are many inexplicable and mysterious espects of this episode," he said. "I shall probably never know why the Soviet government decided to take an action which by non-Soviet standards was so strange and indeed bizarre."

Barghoorn spent 16 days in a small lighted cell in Lubianko prison at Moscow, his mother Mrs. Elizabeth Barghoorn said. "The food was very poor, and he lost 10 pounds."

She said two Russian policemen arrested him "and he was handcuffed." She said they took her son to a "little cell" where a light burned 24 hours a day.

"The Russian guard looked in on him all the time," she said.

Mrs. Barghoorn said that, when her son was freed, "they took him right to the plane. They didn't allow him to get in touch with the people at the (U.S.) embassy. He had cocktails there the night before he was supposed to leave (prior to his arrest)."

She said her son "came home dead tired," and went to bed early last night. He "was in a state of complete exhaustion," she said, but noted that he was up bright and early today.

Cheap Rooms For Kennedys —$75 A Day

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy will occupy a $75-a-day hotel suite Wednesday night while Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will have a suite with a $100 price tag.

A spokesman for Hotel Texas explained that the arrangements committee believed that the suite selected for the Kennedys "has brighter colors and would be more to the liking of the Kennedys."

The two-bedroom, three-bath and sitting-room suite for the Kennedys is decorated in Chinese modern.

The Will Rogers Suite, which the Johnsons will occupy, features Western pictures.

Neither the Johnsons nor the Kennedys will pay for the hotel accommodations. It's hotel policy, an official explained.

Hub Council Due Dog Ordinance

Discussion on a uniform county dog control ordinance will be held by the San Anselmo City Council at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the city council chambers.

Also on the agenda are requests for road improvements on Hillside Avenue and a 15-minute zone in front of 224 Greenfield Avenue.

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce will ask the council to have city forces erect Christmas decorations in the downtown area.

CDC Sets 'Volunteers' For Kennedy Next Year

FRESNO (AP)—Calling attention to its numbers, the volunteer California Democratic Council has decided to mobilize thousands to campaign for President John F. Kennedy in 1964 and to fight any attempt at repealing the California law banning housing discrimination.

Directors of the organization said during a weekend meeting they would put 10,000 "Volunteers in Politics for Jack Kennedy" in the field next year, each to cover one precinct.

And if an effort to invalidate the 1963 Rumford Act barring discrimination in the selling and renting of most housing gets on the ballot, "the CDC will have 50,000 doorbell ringers out to defeat it," CDC President Tom Carvey Jr. declared.

He called on state Republican leaders to oppose the proposed constitutional amendment, sponsored by the California Real Estate Assn. The initiative to get the amendment on next year's ballot needs about 420,000 signatures of registered voters to succeed.

In other actions, the directors:

Endorsed Democratic Assemblyman Phillip Burton's candidacy for the 5th District seat left vacant by the election of Democratic Rep. John Shelley as San Francisco mayor.

Decided to release at the January meeting their analysis of the voting records of Democratic state assemblymen and senators.

Backed a water plan similar to one proposed by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall for the Southwest.

Condemned California congressmen who voted to extend the Mexican farm hand program for a year, and congratulated those who opposed it.

Supported the Pacifica Foundation, which runs subscriber-financed FM radio stations in Berkeley, Los Angeles and New York. The Federal Communications Commission is holding up license renewals for the stations and has ordered Pacific officials to reveal any Communist Party connections.

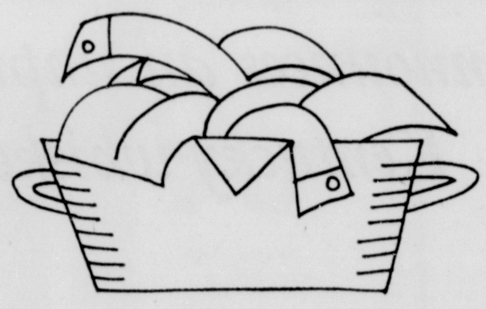
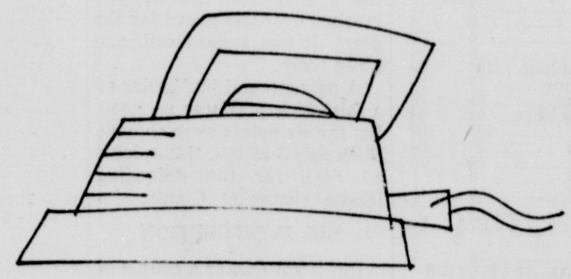
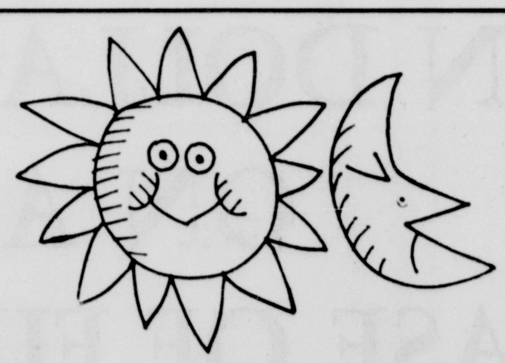
Six reasons why you'll waltz through washday with an automatic dryer:



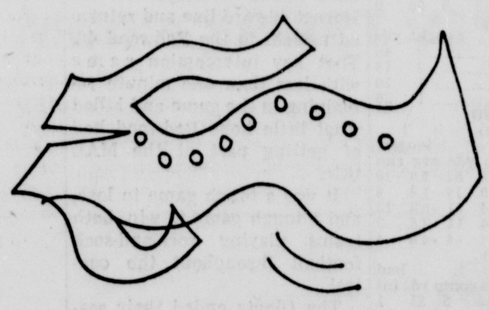
You won't have to lift and lug those back-breaking baskets of wet wash any more. (The average homemaker carries about two tons of wet wash to the line each year.)



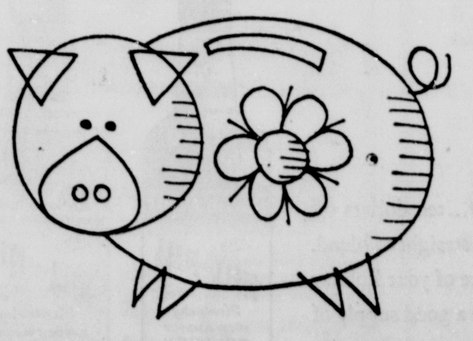
Ironing is easier. New damp-dry settings make clothes come out just right for ironing. And some fabrics come out so wrinkle-free, they need no ironing at all.



You'll be able to dry your wash at any hour of the day or night. And don't forget the weather! Or rather, do forget it. With a dryer, any day is wash day.



Laundry comes out soft, fluffy . . . looks and feels good. And a dryer's ultra-violet light gives your clothes the sweet smell of summer sunshine all year long.



You'll save money on clothing—especially for "small fry." Clothing lasts longer, and fewer clothes and linens are needed when you can wash and dry any time.

You'll feel so much fresher at the end of the day. And think of the extra time you'll be able to spend with your family — instead of with your clothesline.

'None Of Us Likes To Talk About It, But--'

A Wife Must Start Planning For That Time When She Will Be Left Alone—

By BARBARA HOSMER
One of a series of articles on Marin's working women.

The whole question is a psychological one. We don't like to think we'll ever be left alone, but a woman should start planning for the time she will be . . .

The speaker is Elaine Guthrie of Ross, who, as one of Marin's two state inheritance tax appraisers the past three years, sees case after case of women who have no idea what their husband's income is and have never written checks.

"NO ONE LIKES to talk about it, but on the average a woman has seven years of life beyond a man."

Yet few of the widows she sees are ever prepared to be left alone.

"THEY ARE STUNNED. 'What will I do?' they ask—they haven't thought about it before. Few have family around . . . Women have a more deep-seated fear of insecurity than men do.

"The happiest women (and widows) are those who have work to do. But though women own 65 per cent of the wealth, they only make 20 per cent of all income.

"WOMEN DON'T like to plan," Mrs. Guthrie says. "Only 15 per cent of all life insurance is owned by women, yet they have the same financial problems men do. And the working woman should think in terms of income protection.

"A woman must start planning early," she emphasizes.

SHE LISTS things most important for a woman to know.

1. It's most important that she and her husband both have a will and keep it up to date.

2. Know where the safe deposit box is and where the key is kept.

3. Know where the deed to the house is kept.

4. Know what insurance policies there are and what kind they are. Know if there are stocks and bonds and where their certificates are kept. Know if the bank account is joint or separate.

On the husband's death the bank immediately closes the safe deposit box and accounts. The wife takes out only the will and burial instructions.

"At the time of death everyone is very upset and if they have made no plans they may end up spending more on the funeral than they had thought to. In the case of a wife she should be prepared for this exigency. If she has a joint account she can withdraw half. If the husband had a separate account she can't withdraw any.

"IT'S A GOOD idea for a woman to learn all she can about her husband's business, especially if he intends to leave it to her. She should start being active in the business before death occurs.

"Since so many of us are to be left alone the happiest women facing widowhood that I've seen are those who have trained themselves to do some work," says Mrs. Guthrie, who is the wife of obstetrician Dr. Joseph B. Guthrie and the mother of three children.

"THE AVERAGE woman will have to supplement her income through work when she is left alone. It's a good idea for her to start going back to work as soon as her children are grown."

"A woman should know the best way to invest in stocks. She should learn to invest, getting to know her broker and beginning to learn this aspect early . . . many widows are taken advantage of when they do not know anything about financial planning and income protection," she says. "And it's so important for a woman to keep the house after her husband's death." She also should get to know her attorney early, she maintains.

HE'LL BE her adviser when she is left alone and under the sudden strain it is not a good time to have to begin this . . .

"One thing you see in Marin, men of 45 having heart attacks," she comments.

Elaine Guthrie herself began planning to return to work as soon as her children were well launched into school.

"IT'S SO important for a woman to do something creative and to use her education," says Mrs. Guthrie, who was graduated in political science and international law from Stanford University. Since it was wartime she began work as the first woman advertising copywriter for Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn Inc. in San Francisco.

But her husband was in training at University of California Hospital and she found the pressures of advertising too much for a wife with home obligations, so she took a trade journal editing job.

Elaine, whose two teen-age boys are at Redwood High School and daughter is at Ross School, stayed home while the children were young.

"I DID community work and this was most satisfying. Volunteer work is very important to the community.

"Because she's left alone a lot a doctor's wife must find something absorbing to do that will contribute to the community," Mrs. Guthrie feels.

Known also for her work in Democratic politics, Mrs. Guthrie is Marin precinct chairman for her party, and calls politics "the most exciting thing anyone can do because all the big decisions that affect women and children are made through politics."

"More women should be in politics — education, welfare, civil rights are all of special interest to women and children," she says.

Precinct work and volunteer work were her interests while her children were young, but each year she spent more time preparing to go back to work full time. She returned to school for courses — appraising at University of California and the course given by the state inheritance tax division through U.C. extension.

"WHEN THE tax appraisal vacancy came four years ago I tried for it."

Now she's one of eight women who with 145 men make up the state inheritance tax appraisers appointed by the state controller, who is responsible for administration of the tax program. By population Marin has two appraisers — Mrs. Guthrie and Lee Holman share the new office quarters on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael and have a staff of two.

"It's an excellent job for women because they are interested in houses, property, furniture, and you can go at your own rate. Everyday is different. What you see when you do someone's estate is their whole life history.

"I may start the day appraising in the morning—maybe a large house, a houseboat, a country home in Bolinas, maybe a yacht. There is an endless variety of homes in Marin and individuality in the way people live," she says "Then there's office work in the afternoon.

"I appraise everything from a closed corporation, coins, stamps, furs, to part time homes and jewelry. I am responsible for the appraising, but I can call in experts and often do."

APPRAISAL values are made as of values on the day of death she explained.

The inheritance tax appraiser is appointed by the superior court judge at the time the lawyers appear on the case. The appraiser's job

POLITICS AND PAINTING are the hobbies of Mrs. Joseph B. Guthrie of Ross, who is the first woman to serve as inheritance tax appraiser in Marin. One of her oils decorates the appraisers' new quarters in San Rafael. The happiest women are those with work to do, she says, and urges women to go into politics, business and volunteer work where she believes they are needed.

Discards Can Make Holiday Decorations

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

You don't have to spend a fortune on Christmas decorations if you have a little imagination to see possibilities in things to be found in almost any house—including discards.

THIS WAS demonstrated with high humor by Mrs. Theodore A. Martinson at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

Of course, if you have a streamlined, uncluttered house or apartment with minimum equipment, you might have to resort to the dime store, salvage sales or second-hand shops.

The flowers and greens — fresh or artificial—Christmas ornaments, ribbons and the like to be used with these items are another story, but here are some of the ingenious uses suggested by Mrs. Martinson for humble objects.

Most effective was a wall plaque of appropriately painted plywood centered with green and red marbles glued onto it in the form of a Christmas tree. The marbles were the ordinary kind youngsters play with, and they don't have to be "baked or fried" to obtain the fashionable cracked look in glass today.

A rusty four-sided grater sprayed and glittered, with a cluster of Christmas balls as a clapper, made a wonderful bell. A child's broom decorated with a shock of golden oats—easily gleaned on a Sunday ride past an oat field—and other colorful Christmas paraphernalia made a handsome door piece. And an old bamboo leaf rake with shortened handle was given a similar treatment with ribbons laced through its tines.

A DISCARDED white wicker purse and inexpensive wicker circles formed the basis for attractive wall pieces, and a shiny metal coffee pot too leaky to hold water was still usable as a container for a small arrangement. Admirable for a holly ring was a circular jello mold sprayed gold or bronze and fitted with chicken wire to eliminate need of frogs.

One of the most unusual inspirations for a black and white arrangement, more suitable perhaps for the new year holiday, was made of a large, glistening lump of coal, a candle mold, figurines and garlenias.

Guaranteed to enchant children were three amusing pieces. A lollypop tree was made of lollypops in assorted colors attached to a foil covered styrofoam form cut in the shape of a tree. A plaque depicting the "Three Little Kittens Who Lost Their Mittens" was constructed of three small round strainers for heads, with pipe cleaner whiskers and other features, and pairs of mittens framing their faces.

TWO WOODEN drawer dividers glued together (plastic ones won't work) made wall shadow boxes for display of tiny dishes, Santa Clauses, angels and anything that might suit the maker's fancy.

Reminiscent of the Victorian gaslight era so popular as a theme on Christmas cards were two striking ideas for centerpieces.

Three balusters from the staircase of an old Victorian house, topped by lanterns cut out of plywood and fitted with votive candles, became the lamp posts that carolers gathered under to read their music.

From the Victorian era too came a convex glass that once covered a turn-of-the-century round portrait. With the help of an inverted sherbet glass as a stem this was quickly converted into the tray of a pedestal type centerpiece for holding fruit or flowers.

Appraiser Urges Marin Women To Prepare For Future Work is to appraise the value of the property of the decedent and to determine inheritance tax due if there is any.

"IN THE majority of cases no tax is due," Mrs. Guthrie said. She calls on a specialist for bond appraisals and most antiques, but she has learned to do some herself.

"YOU HAVE to file an affidavit proving community property on the day of death in the case of husband and wife," she said. "That's one reason why it's important to keep a record of financial transactions always. Women ally . . . but many widows have no idea what community property is."

The tax appraiser says people are always nice, even in unpleasant situations. There are certain Marin areas she never visits—they're full of young people.

"THERE IS the problem in Marin of the senior citizen. Many are pensioners and retired people holding properin our state have a tremendous advantage — they automatically get half, but they have to prove it's community property—estate accumulated during the marriage. This is not too difficult to prove, usuties or living in summer houses converted to year around residences . . . you see some real poverty.

"Marin is less and less a place to retire to live. It's so expensive people are moving to Sonoma . . . ," she finds.

BECAUSE of this high cost of living today it's hard for a widow not to have to supplement her income, Mrs. Guthrie says. And there is a need for social workers and professional workers, even on a part time basis. But a woman doesn't have to have professional type job—any paying job helps and the companionship of an office and the accomplishments of solving problems in business are extremely satisfying.

"THE IMPORTANT thing is for a woman to have some work to do."

'Merry-Go-Round' Preview Set

More than 400 women from the 18 guilds of the Louise Boyd Natural Science Museum will present "Marin Merry-Go-Round"—a Christmas boutique opening Friday for two days at the "old" Elks Club building, Fifth and B Sts., San Rafael.

Preceding the benefit will be an invitational preview from 8:30 p.m. to midnight on Thursday.

Mrs. James M. Tasley is chairman for the boutique which will be open on Friday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The club will be transformed into a giant carousel and guild members dressed in clown costumes will distribute balloons, popcorn and candy to carry out the circus theme.

Items that will be sold include Scandinavian knitted ski caps, painted and jeweled trees and ornaments, felt jumpers and "at home" skirts and handmade holiday delicacies.

Suburbia, Teen-Agers Talk Set By Agency's Director

"Suburbia and Teen-Age Standards" will be the subject for Thursday night's Edna Maguire School Parent-Teacher Assn. meeting in Mill Valley.

Speaker for the meeting to be held at 8 o'clock in the school annex will be Nicholas Suntzeff, director of the Marin Family Service Agency. This is part of the Edna Maguire P-TA program of inquiry into and understanding of forces which shape the code of teen-agers' conduct.

Suntzeff's comments concerning the teen-age world along Highway 101 were recently quoted in a magazine essay, "The Tense Generation." "It's an entirely separated life," wrote Suntzeff, ". . . adults will vaguely note something going on, without understanding . . ."

Suntzeff is a nationally known case worker and administrator in family services who came to Marin after previous experience in the family and children's agency in San Francisco, the family and child service in Tacoma, Wash., and the Family Service Bureau in Oakland.

Fat Child Resists Exercise

It's just like trying to make a horse drink: You may lead a fat child into sports but he may not exercise.

A Boston doctor took movies of overweight and normal weight children engaging in individual and team activities. Even in games, the obese children on the average were much less active than the non-obese.

TAKE TENNIS. Dr. Jean Mayer, associate professor of nutrition at the Harvard School of Public Health, says this:

"The active player went after the ball while his inactive competitor attempted a return only when the ball was returned to his immediate vicinity."

Dr. Mayer and his associate, Dr. Beverly Bullen, made an analysis that showed the average child was inactive 20 per cent of the time in tennis while the obese child managed to remain inactive 55 per cent of the time.

IN VOLLEY BALL, obese children were even less active. They succeeded in remaining inactive 82 per cent of the time, compared with 54 per cent inactivity for the average-weight player. The fat child tends to wait until the ball is within range before moving.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Nov. 18, the 322nd day of 1963 with 43 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1883, the United States adopted standard time and the nation was divided into four time zones.

In 1903, the United States and Panama signed a treaty which led to the building of the Panama Canal.

In 1939, John L. Lewis was elected president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

In 1960, the U. S. Navy patrolled the Carribean to guard against a Cuban invasion of Central America.

A thought for the day — Thomas Jefferson said: "Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it will be dear to you."

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Heroine Of This Story Looking For Paper King

By a wise provision of Mother Nature some of us go to a great deal of trouble to look for queens, and others search just as hard for kings.

I'm talking about bridge players, of course, and the heroine of my story was looking for a paper king.

West took the top hearts and switched to a trump. Mrs. Mickee Heumann, Los Angeles Mixed Pair Champion, drew two rounds of trumps and then wondered who had the king of diamonds.

WHAT PLAY?

If East had the king of diamonds, a finesse would be in order. If West had the king, some other play would be needed.

How do you find out where the kings are? Never underestimate the power of a pretty girl.

Mrs. Heumann reasoned that East needed one of the missing kings for his raise to two hearts, and that West needed one of the kings for his opening bid. If she could locate the king of clubs, that would tell her who had the king of diamonds.

LEADS QUEEN

For this reason Mrs. Heumann led the queen of clubs from her hand before beginning the diamonds. West played a low club, and declarer won with dummy's ace.

There was now good reason to believe that East had the king of clubs.

If West held that card he would have played it on declarer's queen.

CLUB KING

If East had the king of clubs, West surely had the king of diamonds. Since a normal diamond finesse would not work, Mrs. Heumann cashed the ace of diamonds and led a low diamond.

Fortunately, West had to play the king. Declarer still had the queen of diamonds to capture East's jack, and the contract was safe.

If South had taken a normal diamond finesse she would have lost the queen to West's king, and another diamond to East's jack.

QUESTION

Partner opens 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ Q 10 9 5
♥ Q 6 5 3 2
♦ J 9 4
♣ 5

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. If your hand were about a king stronger you would bid two clubs (the Stayman Convention) to find out if partner can show a major suit. With only 5 points in high cards you must simply bid your own long suit and settle for a part score.

Here's Woman Who Took Free Trip To Paris

Won World's Fair Prize And Took Husband Along

You have often heard the free-trip-to-Paris pitch, but how many people have you met who won a free trip to Paris?

Meet Mrs. Howard Friesen of 135 Corte Elena, Greenbrae. She won that trip to Paris and she did it with her own sincerity and skill. The ticket was a first class passage on an Air French jet. By converting it to second class and putting in a few dollars, she was able to take along a guest—her husband.

In a three week trip they took in the Riviera, parts of Switzerland, a corner of Italy and a slice of Spain as well as Paris.

Winning the trip was not easy and it took a long time to get the results. In fact, Mrs. Friesen had forgotten all about it when she got a phone call at 9 p.m. July 1 from a man who spoke with a very French accent. It was Roger Gotteland of the French consulate in Seattle.

He told her that the answers Mrs. Friesen had submitted in a contest at the French exhibit at the Century 21 World's Fair in Seattle the year before had won first prize.

The exhibit outlined the "Seven Keys to the Future of Mankind." Visitors were asked to supply their own definitions to these keys.

The keys listed at the exhibit were education, research, knowledge of man, making the right decisions, adopting environment to man, contact with nature, and awareness of beauty.

Mrs. Friesen, who studied English at University of California at Berkeley, and worked for a time in an advertising agency in San Francisco, wrote the following definitions:

"Education—Awakening mind and heart, furthering understanding. Essential training for development of other six keys. Fundamental for keeping up in specialized world.

"Research — Exploration, study, comprehension of cause and effect, flexibility in accepting new theories; implementation for benefit to mankind.

Knowledge of man—Study of social and behavioral sciences — interrelations, interactions, tolerances, abilities, limitations of man and societies. Using past to predict and guide future.

"Making the right decisions—Reaching conclusions logically via mind and machines, acting on them at the right time, without eliminating the individual element.

"Adopting environment to man—Examination and weighing of goals, values and achievements—e.g. speed, comfort, quiet; then intelligent planning and action for healthy, fruitful environment.

Contact with nature—Awareness of physical and spiritual benefits and pleasures of nature, and its force, power and order of balance.

"Awareness of beauty—Appreciation of form, function, color, texture, composition, relationships, for heightened observation and enjoyment of fine arts, nature, even everyday objects."

The Friesens returned from the trip Oct. 26, and Friesen went back to work in San Francisco as an engineer, full of memories of happy travel and proud of his clever wife.

Mrs. Friesen depreciates her achievement a little bit by saying there were only 300 entries in the contest. But that did not make her enjoy the trip less.

REMINDERS—A map showing their trip and other reminders decorate the bulletin board in the Howard Friesen kitchen. Mrs. Friesen won the trip to Paris in a contest. The other travels they paid for themselves.

U.S. Autos Cutting Into Europe Market

By GEORGE W. HERALD
Woldwide Press Service

PARIS (WPS)—The invasion of Common Market countries by U.S. car makers threatens to put many European auto manufacturers out of business. Experts are predicting that by 1970, two-thirds of the 20 major European makers won't be in the market.

The trend is evident in such figures as the following: In the first half of 1963, the General Motors-controlled company, Opel, increased its output by 64 per cent and upped its sales in Germany by 24 per cent, thanks largely to its new Kadett model. And Ford-Germany has been so successful with its new 12-M car that it has increased its production by 44 per cent and sales in Germany by 48 per cent. In the same period, sales of the German Volkswagen went down 19 per cent.

"The American triumph is mainly due to price-cutting," said one disgruntled West German engineer. "Since they are backed by their huge home markets, the Detroit giants can easily afford to trim profit margins and underbid their European competitors."

The Ford "Anglia," manufactured in Britain, is cited as an example. Despite customs duties and high distribution costs, this car is sold in France and Italy at a lower price than in England.

The French regard this as a sort of "dumping," which, they say, tends to explain why British and American car makers last year supplied the Common Market with 60 per cent of its auto imports, whereas only 2 per cent of the continent's exports were sold to England.

Since people in the Common Market area buy almost eight million cars per year, the European car makers have started mapping a common strategy to counter the trend toward buying American cars.

Here are the main steps the Europeans have agreed on:

They will equip their plants with automation as fast as possible in order to make at least 2,000-3,000 cars a day, regardless of the labor shortage. Experience has taught them that car production is lucrative only if it attains some 500,000 cars per year.

They will build up bigger stockpiles so they can fulfill orders at once. Up to now there has been a waiting list of three to six months for all the more popular European makes of cars, and many customers are lost to faster producers.

They will diversify their passenger car models in order to satisfy various tastes more easily. Since France is a predominantly rural country, 30 per cent of its entire production has so far been devoted to the cheap Renault Four and the low horsepower Citroen, although many foreign clients who like French cars, are clamoring for stronger motors. This will be changed.

The present plight of the Volkswagen has offered further proof of the pitfalls in auto "monoculture."

They will seek greater stability of revenues by extending their production to other fields such as turbines, military vehicles and electrical household appliances.

At the same time, the various big European auto firms are stepping up cooperation. Citroen, for instance, is now pooling its tool-making facilities with Simca, Alfa-Romeo is assembling and distributing the French Dauphine in Italy, and BMW is selling Innocenti cars in Germany.

Some of these exercises in togetherness are expected to lead to mergers before long. There is much talk among insiders about possible new combines such as Fiat-Citroen-Mercedes, Renault-Alfa Romeo and Fiat-Simca Chrysler. To strengthen the French position the de Gaulle government has just endowed Renault with a special grant of 50 million dollars.

According to the experts, such mergers would not only enable the Europeans to hold their own in the car war but to carry the fight into overseas markets. Some Americans say they would welcome such a development, for they feel that making the struggle worldwide will be the only way of keeping it from putting new heavy strains on the Atlantic Alliance.

President Charles de Gaulle reportedly views the auto war as another factor strengthening his influence in Europe.

Nieri Named Heart Drive Head Again

A. L. Nieri of Novato, vice president of the Bank of Marin in San Rafael, has been named chairman of the 1964 Heart Fund campaign for the Marin County Heart Assn.

Nieri was chairman of the 1963 campaign and chairman of the Heart Days for Business drive in 1962.

C. L. Berlenbach of Fairfax, Mill Valley manager for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., was named co-chairman of the one-month campaign starting Feb. 1, 1964.

Proceeds will be used for research into heart and blood vessel diseases which are responsible for more than 54 per cent of all deaths in the United States, the association reported.

Dr. E. A. McCrum, association president, said that campaign committee assignments are being planned.

ANNEX 1962-6

To the Honorable Sanitary Board of
The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District
Marin County, State of California

The undersigned petitioners respectfully represent:

That they are owners of real property within the territory hereinafter described, which real property represents at least seventy-five per cent (75%) of the total assessed valuation of the territory as shown by the last equalized County assessment roll, and do hereby petition that all of said territory be annexed to the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, Marin County, State of California;

Naval Outfit Due A Special Award

A quiet but efficient Naval reserve electronics outfit in Santa Venetia will win special commendation from the 12th Naval District tomorrow night for winning second place in the district and 18th in the nation for all-around efficiency.

Naval Reserve Electronics Division 12-30, with headquarters at 153 Madison Avenue, Santa Venetia, won the award for efficiency, attendance, advancements and active duty performance by its 84 reserve members under commanding officer Lt. R. N. Thalman of Terra Linda. In civilian life, Thalman is assistant vice president and manager of data processing for First Western Bank in San Francisco.

The award is for the fiscal year ending last June 30.

Chief Radioman D. V. Maves, stationkeeper at the Santa Venetia Headquarters, said his division came in second to San Luis Obispo for the year ending last June. "But as of September this year, we were in first place in the 12th District," said Maves. "We're working for top national honors this year."

The commendation certificate will be presented at 7 p.m. tomorrow. Rear Adm. E. E. Yeomans of Treasure Island, Commandant of the 12th Naval District, will send Capt. F. G. Hess, deputy chief of staff for the naval reserve, to present the awards.

In addition to the unit award, individual commendation certificates will go to the following men:

Cyril Donaldson of San Rafael, chief torpedoman; Theodore McGuire of San Rafael, a California Highway Patrolman, chief personnelman; Henry White of San Rafael, senior chief signalman; Warren Simpson of Novato, chief radioman.

Harvey Pottorff of San Rafael, intercommunications mate 1/C; Robert Farris of San Rafael, radioman 2/C; Keith Chapman of San Anselmo, personnelman 3/C, and Donald Wetzel of San Rafael, aviation electronics technician 2/C.

Maves announced proudly that this is the first time in the 10-year history of the division that the group has won top honors.

The division was formerly located at the Tiburon Net Depot site and moved to Santa Venetia in October of 1961. "We came here with 36 men," said Maves. "Now we have 84 men, all Marin residents."

The group meets each Tuesday night for three hours of active duty. The reserves train on electronic equipment connected directly with Treasure Island. Many of the men are also amateur radio operators.

Need For Outpatient Mental Clinic Cited

A mental health program for Marin, to be set up with the aid of state Short-Doyle funds, should include outpatient clinical services and some expansion of inpatient service to provide for emergency commitments.

These are some of the immediate needs outlined in a five-page tentative recommendation issued today by the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board in advance of a public hearing set for next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Center.

Mrs. Daniel A. Collins, committee chairman, said anyone planning to make a presentation at the hearing should notify Mrs. Thelma Jo Johnson at the county administrator's office by 5 p.m. Monday.

After the public hearing, the mental health advisory board will draw up a final recommendation to be presented to the county board of supervisors.

The tentative recommendations call for immediate hiring of a psychiatrist as mental health program chief on a half-time basis, at $760 per month. He would work under the local mental health director.

The advisory committee recommends that the county health director be named the mental health director.

The board recommends initial emphasis be given in the following order of priority:

1. Outpatient clinical services, family centered. Both public and private facilities would probably be included to provide this service.

2. Agency consultation. Arrangements now exist for psychiatric consultation to county departments. This consultation should be given to other agencies, public and private, including physicians, social workers, probation officers, attorneys, police, teachers, ministers, public health nurses, etc.

3. Short-term intensive inpatient service, by contract with hospitals. Make available at least brief local hospitalization for carefully chosen cases, including brief court commitments.

The Short-Doyle act provides 50 per cent participation by the state now, and 75 per cent later.

The board recommends that the program ultimately include treatment for deserving patients who cannot afford the full cost of private care, a crisis service without a waiting list, rehabilitative facilities, home care and visits, measures to keep mentally weakened persons out of institutions, etc.

Interrogation Units Will Help Keep Tabs On New Pay Television

The new pay television system which is being developed for the San Francisco and Los Angeles metropolitan areas apparently will have a foolproof system of knowing how much to bill their subscribers.

You won't have much of a chance to sneak a free look.

Two interrogation units installed in the billing office of Subscription Television, Inc. will be used to send out coded groups of impulses to each subscriber's program selector at a rate of about 10 times an hour. If you are tuned in it is registered, and the response is recorded on magnetic tape for conventional data processing. This in turn prepares a monthly billing, showing date, time and title of the programs you watched during the month.
